Soviets Open Exhibition in New York City

New York —P— A glittering Soviet scientific and cultural exhibition began a 42-day stand today.

The Kremlin's No. 3 man, Frol R. Kozlov, renewed the Soviet call for peaceful competition at formal opening ceremonies last night.

He also heard Vice President Richard M. Nixon say in a speech at the opening that no summit conference will dramatically end world tension.

There is no simple misunderstanding underlying the cold war, but a deep clash of ideologies, Nixon said.

"There are basic conflicts of interest and deeply clashing ideologies that are not easily removed," said Nixon.

No Magic Formula

"In other words, there is no magic formula which will settle the differences between us no conference at the summit, which will dramatically end world tensions," he added.

The Russians emphasized the peaceful aspect of the exhibition, and repeated their urging for peaceful competition.

Kozlov clapped 37 times as he listened to a translation of Nixon's remarks.

Then Kozlov, speaking in Russian, said the Soviet Union is so intent on peaceful development that it "cannot harbor any evil intentions in regard to other nations."

Goes to Washington

He read a message from Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, which said in part:

"May competition in producing means of destruction be replaced by competition in producing material benefits and accumulating spiritual values."

Moscow in New Effort to Overtake U. S.

Plan Calls for Automation in Industrial Plants

Moscow —P— The central committee today put before the Soviet people a master plan to cut corners in the race with the United States for industrial supremacy.

The plan, adopted at a 5-day meeting of the committee at which Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev made the main speech, was spread over 34 pages of Pravda and Izvestia.

It calls for widespread automation in industrial plants, retooling and mass mobilization of scientific and efficiency experts.

Tighter Control

It also calls for tightened central control by the party and government to assure a uniform industrial advance on a broad front to achieve goals of the 7-year economic plan.

The 7-year plan aims at surpassing the United States, but one industrial expert, Averki B. Aristov, told the committee the task of modernizing is too big to be accomplished in the 7-year plan.

The central committee rapped hard at the technical conservatism of Soviet engineers and at the tendency in the newly decentralized system of control for factories to give priority to local needs.

It admitted that workers, engineers and technicians could not be expected to work toward the new plan with the desired fervor without increasing their economic incentives. The committee said some of those who were pushing new techniques were worse off financially than those who stuck to the old way of doing things.

A Great Day

When the first commercial airliner touches down at Outagamie county airport tomorrow it will be an event as important to this community as that of Feb. 27, 1861, when the first railroad train arrived here. It is the beginning of a new era for the Fox Cities.

True, the inauguration of air service comes somewhat as an anticlimax after our long struggle to achieve it and especially after the last year during which the date was postponed time and time again. True, the one-flight-a-day service is clearly inadequate for a community of this size, and the arrival and departure times are inconvenient at best. True, we are going to receive service from obsolescent DC-3's while neighboring airports are being served by more modern Convairs.

But these problems are strictly temporary. The important thing is that tomorrow the Fox Cities begin their drive to become the No. 1 air travel center in Wisconsin north of Milwaukee — a drive that cannot help but be successful if we continue to work together in a spirit of harmony and determination as we have on this and many other projects in recent years.

We face one immediate problem, however. Air service is presented to any community on a "use it or lose it" basis; the airline and the Civil Aeronautics board have no intention of keeping the service here if the people of this community fail to make use of it in sufficient numbers so that it becomes a profitable operation. Let us hope that all Fox Cities people who travel by air will, beginning now, make every attempt possible to use this new service, realizing that such use will make inevitable more flights, better schedules and better equipment.

This is the first step—use the service! We must walk before we can run.

Adenauer Defies Reds, Flies to West Berlin

Goes to Meeting of Electoral College Despite Communist Threat of Blockade

BY REINHOLD ENSZ

Berlin —P— Chancellor Konrad Adenauer flew into West Berlin today ignoring communist threats against the isolated city.

Adenauer came for a meeting of the West German electoral college tomorrow. The college will choose a successor to West German President Theodor Heuss.

Flies on U. S. Plane

Communist East Germany threatened earlier this month to blockade West Berlin if the electoral college held its meeting in West Berlin, 110 miles inside East German territory. This threat has not been repeated.

The chancellor arrived in a U. S. Air Force transport plane, his usual means of travel to the communist-surrounded city.

He arrived only a few hours after the latest communist blast against the presidential election.

Friedrich Ebert, mayor of communist East Berlin, said the choice of West Berlin for the election was proof that West Germany was trying to sabotage a peaceful solution of the Berlin problem.

Unless West Germany and the western allies change their attitude toward the German question, he said, a separate peace treaty would become an "urgent necessity."

Such a treaty would provide the Soviet Union with a legal reason for giving East Germany's communist regime control over allied military traffic into West Berlin.

Ebert's statement was published simultaneously in the official communist party newspaper Neues Deutschland and the Soviet newspaper Izvestia.

Ike Signs Bill On Vets' Housing

Washington —P— President Eisenhower today signed legislation providing for $100 million in direct loans for veterans' housing and boosting interest rates on veterans' mortgages.

The loans will be made by the veterans administration to veterans unable to obtain reasonable financing elsewhere. On home loans made through normal channels, the veterans administration guarantees repayment.

The new law raises from 4 1/2 to 5 1/2 per cent the interest rate on direct and guaranteed loans.

Ike Has Good Time in Spite of Exhibit Crush

Jostled but Happy

By Marvin L. Arrowsmith

Washington —P— President Eisenhower appeared to enjoy himself thoroughly. It's something of a minor miracle if he doesn't have few bruises today.

Chances are that Soviet Deputy Premier Frol R. Kozlov, who's due here late today, could match Eisenhower one black and blue spot for another. The Kremlin official seemed to have a good time, too.

It all happened yesterday in the New York City Coliseum, where Eisenhower met Kozlov for an hour-long official tour of Russia's scientific and cultural exhibit.

Praises Exhibit

"I think it is a very, very admirable exhibit," Eisenhower said as he completed his visit. "I think it is lovely."

During their tour, the two men were propelled—pushed, jostled, shoved—around the big exposition hall as the crowds of spectators and newsmen crushed in from all sides.

Scores of New York police, usually expert in keeping crowds in check, were hard put at times to stay on their own feet. The secret service agents especially responsible for Eisenhower's security also had a rough time. The Russians assigned to Kozlov must have had some anxious moments.

The president and Kozlov, who arrived from Moscow Sunday, smiled through most of it.

Eisenhower laughed heartily at one point and assured his Soviet hosts:

"I've been pushed around for six years. I'm used to it." Kozlov took it in apparently equal good humor, replying: "Well, we won't resort to tear gas and clubs."

They didn't even appear to be aware that some of the top United States officials who accompanied the president to

100 Hurt as Craft Falls On School

Naha, Okinawa —P— A pilotless U. S. Air Force jet fighter hurtled into the corner of an Okinawa schoolhouse today, then sprayed fiery fragments over a residential area.

A control center set up by U.S. military authorities said 21 persons were killed and 100 injured. Rescue teams were seeking more bodies.

It was not yet known how many of the dead were school children.

All of the victims apparently were Okinawans. Police said that 60 of the less seriously injured were children playing in the vicinity of the school.

The blazing wreckage set fire to 30 houses.

Thousand rushed hysterically to the scene after a local broadcast that 150 had been killed and 300 hurt. The milling crowds hindered the removal of the injured to hospitals by military ambulances.

Political Reaction

It was one of the worst military disasters since World war II on Okinawa, biggest U. S. base in the Far East. There were immediate political repercussions in Tokyo. The Japanese socialist party long critical of American administration of the former Japanese island, said it would bring the matter up in parliament.

Lt. Gen. Robert W. Burns, commander of the 5th Air Force, expressed his "deep personal sympathy" for the victims and their families. He planned to fly to Okinawa for a personal investigation.

An explosion occurred aboard the F100 Super Sabre jet soon after it took off from Kadena Air base, 8 miles from Ishikawa. The pilot, Capt. John G. Schmitt, Jr., of Chalmers, Ind., parachuted to safety.

Capt. Richard Roussell of Lockport, La., an eyewitness, said the empty plane headed for an uninhabited hill, veering to the right.

Inflation to be Major Issue

Parties to Blame Each Other for Increasing Costs

Washington —P— With indications that both parties intend to make inflation a major or 1960 campaign issue, Democrats and Republicans blamed each other today for rising living costs.

Sens. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) and Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) predicted Democratic candidates will bear down next year on the contention that the Eisenhower administration has raised prices to consumers by jacking up interest costs.

Humphrey, a potential candidate for his party's presidential nomination, and Mansfield, the assistant senate party leader, served notice they will oppose giving President Eisenhower authority to fix the interest ceiling on long term government bonds.

Danger to Credit

The house ways and means committee meets today to consider that idea. It has rejected Eisenhower's request that congress remove the 4 1/2 per cent legal limit now applying to all bonds running five years or longer.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican leader, said that unless something is done about the interest ceiling, the credit of the United States may be threatened.

The treasury contends it cannot now offer long-term bonds limited to 4 1/2 per cent interest and compete successfully against higher interest rates paid by others seeking to borrow money.

"The higher interest rates that are now in effect can be traced to the spending actions of the Democratic congress," Dirksen said. "The more congress spends, the more difficult becomes the treasury's problem to get the money to finance these programs."

65 Injured When Italian Strikers Fight With Police

Naples, Italy —P— About 65 persons were injured last night as thousands of striking Italian seamen battled police until they were dispersed with tear gas.

The riots in the suburban port of Torre del Greco were provoked by a government order mobilizing seamen for duty on ships to keep communication with Italy's Mediterranean islands during the worldwide Italian seamen's strike.

The violence was the worst since the strike began three weeks ago. It has tied up more than 100 Italian ships and freighters all over the world.

Some 6,000 seamen attacked police with bottles, stones and torches and burned three police trucks and a fire truck. After two hours they were beaten back with clubs and tear gas grenades. More than 100 strikers were arrested after police summoned reinforcements from nearby towns.

Budget Deficit to Establish Record

Exact Amount of Red Ink Won't be Known for Several Weeks but It's Certain to Top Peacetime Peak

Washington — (U-P) — Uncle Sam today winds up his 1959 fiscal year with the biggest peacetime budget deficit on record. The exact amount of red ink won't be known for several weeks.

President Eisenhower forecast a deficit of $12,900,000,000 in his January budget message to congress. Budget Director Maurice H. Stans told a senate committee last week the figure may be several hundred million dollars lower.

A smaller deficit would mean that tax revenues have exceeded the $68 billion predicted in January. There is little chance that spending will be shaved much if any below the budget message figure of $80,900,000,000.

Twice As Big

In any event, the deficit will be more than twice as big as any previously recorded in peacetime. The old peacetime high was $4,425,000,000 in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, when government spending was increased to offset the depression. The all-time high deficit was about $57 1/2 billions in fiscal 1943 in the early days of World war II.

For President Eisenhower, fiscal 1959 brings the fourth deficit in six years.

The 1960 fiscal year, which begins at midnight, will almost surely produce a brighter picture. There might even be a sizable surplus if the new economic boom follows the course now foreseen by government economists.

Eisenhower asked congress to authorize fiscal 1960 spending of $77,030,000,000. He predicted revenues of $77,100,000,000 and a precarious budget surplus of $70 million, contingent on higher gasoline tax and postal rates which congress isn't likely to put into effect.

3 Doctors Say Long Suffered 'Breakdown'

Hint at Recovery; Governor Tells of Plans to Fire 40

Covington, La. — (U-P) — Gov. Earl K. Long today was reported on the road to recovery from what psychiatrists have newly labeled "a nervous breakdown" rather than mental illness.

Along his road the governor carries plans to chop at least 40 persons from state payrolls. Some of them were somehow involved in his being committed to mental hospitals twice this month.

He has already fired three state officials — two of them medical men who held him in one mental institution—and he is divorcing his wife, who had him committed.

Nervous Breakdown

Three psychiatrists last night said Long, a voluntary patient in a small town motel, suffered from "a nervous breakdown from overwork."

Their report said the fiery, fast-moving 63-year-old governor recently suffered a small stroke or strokes which, combined with his overactivity, resulted in a marked rundown state.

Noting that Long had a heart attack nine years ago, the doctors said: "At this time there is nothing that would indicate that the governor cannot make another recovery."

At present, the psychiatrists said, "the governor is rational, with no intellectual impairment." They added: "We agree with the governor that he is better mentally than physically."

The report was by three prominent doctors whom Long had asked for a study of his condition and a prescription for his treatment. They were Drs. Robert Heath and Victor Lief of Tulane university and Charles Watkins of Louisiana State university.

Coal Miner Goes on Trial

Murder Charged In Death of Kentucky Independent Owner

London, Ky. — (U-P) — John Henry Warran, a lanky, 32-year-old coal miner and father of three children, was to go on trial for his life today.

He is charged with murder in the death of an independent mine operator.

A jury of seven men and five women was selected late yesterday.

Warran of Arjay, Ky., was one of five United Mine Workers men indicted for murder in the slaying of Woodrow Smith, 42, who was gunned down during early violence in the strike of United Mine Workers against Eastern Kentucky Coal operators. The strike is now in its sixteenth week.

Circuit Judge Sampson on B. Knuckles granted a defense motion for separate trials and the commonwealth motion that Warran be tried first.

Others indicted for murder were Ray Engle, 30, and his brother Jesse D. Engle, 23, and Bailey Perry, 27, all of Straight Creek, and Fred Gregory, 21, of Four Mile Two others were charged as accessories.

Jerry Collings, 11, rests in an Oklahoma City hospital after he was injured when a firecracker exploded in a bottle. Doctors say the sight in one eye may be saved. Jerry's parents say they haven't told their son he will be blind in one eye.

Educators May Split On Segregation Issue

Association Delegates Argue Whether Strong or Mild Stand Should be Taken

St. Louis — (U-P) — The issue of good will and respect for segregation in public schools once more is threatening to split the nation's largest educational organization along geographical and racial lines.

White delegates from the south want the National Education association to adopt the same mildly worded resolution that was accepted after a bitter fight in Cleveland last year.

Negro delegates, with the support of some northern whites, want a strongly worded statement condemning racial segregation.

Advocates of a strong stand lost a skirmish yesterday, but indicated they plan to keep on fighting. The showdown will come at Friday's general session.

The resolutions committee held an open hearing yesterday on the resolutions that will be up for consideration by the full convention Friday.

The proposed statement on integrating public schools called for a "spirit of fair play,

Seek Cause of Georgia Train Wreck, Blast

Death Toll Mounts To 19 as Teams Sift Through Debris

Meltdram, Ga. — (U-P) — A full scale investigation is underway to determine what caused Sunday's disastrous train wreck.

The death toll from butane flames reached 19 last night. Three persons still are in serious condition.

Sifting through the ashes and gathering eyewitness reports are investigators from the interstate commerce commission, Georgia public service commission and Seaboard Air Line Railroad company.

A few volunteers still searched the area for additional bodies, but there had been no queries about missing persons since Monday afternoon.

Worst Disaster

The disaster, one of Georgia's worst, occurred about 3:30 p. m. Sunday at a recreation area on the Ogeechee river 18 miles northwest of Savannah.

This one was unique in that it occurred at an isolated picnic area — miles from any other habitation. A few hundred yards either way and the explosion would probably have hurt no one except possibly the trainmen.

But the accident occurred on a wooden trestle, 15 feet above where hundreds of Sunday outers were fishing, swimming, boating and relaxing.

Eyewitnesses generally agreed that several cars derailed, rupturing a tank car filled with butane gas. The gas floated downward over the recreation area like a ground fog, then ignited with a tremendous roar.

Another tank car filled with the highly explosive gas ignited almost simultaneously.

Sheets of flame streaked across the recreation area, burning everything and everyone in its path. Several automobiles parked nearby were destroyed by the blast.

Seaboard officials who inspected the scene said they found no track or car condition that might have caused the wreck.

Gospel Center New Building Well Underway

$18,000 Structure Being Constructed in Green Meadow Plat

Kaukauna — Construction work on Kaukauna's newest church, the Community Gospel Center, is expected to be completed before the end of the summer.

Work on the $18,000 structure was delayed through the winter but started as soon as possible this spring, after frost had left the ground. The building has no basement but footings were not poured until the ground was settled after the spring thaw.

Most of the exterior work is completed and crews are now plastering and adjusting wiring. Setting of hardware, doors and windows and minor finishing work remains to be completed on the interior.

The church is 30 by 64 feet incorporating about 2,000 square feet of floor space. It is constructed of brick with Fond du Lac stone trim. Floyd Pendleton is masonry contractor and Jonen and Biese was the carpentry contractor.

The new building is located at 1717 S. Main avenue in the recently opened Green Meadows plat. Services are now being conducted in a store building at 140 E. Second street.

Wisconsin's Tax Revision Program

Gov. Nelson told his Citizens' Tax Revision committee that he wants a state tax system which will provide "adequate fixed revenues, equities, tax stability and promote economic growth." He told the committee further that while he is not disposed to impose his own views upon them he nevertheless thinks that the personal property tax in its present form is the most inequitable tax of all and therefore should be changed. There are very few who will disagree.

The tax study now under way in Wisconsin offers a very interesting example of the use of committees. Tax experts from the University of Wisconsin now are completing a technical study of taxation which is intended to show the impact of the various state taxes upon individuals and corporations, and in addition will show as far as possible the prospective impact of alternative tax forms upon the state's economy. This information will be given to the revision committee of citizens along with suggestions for various forms of sales taxes and variations of the income tax levies. Since the university experts will not have their report ready before Aug. 1, and since the governor has asked that the revision committee report if possible by Sept. 15 so that legislation can be prepared for the Oct. 15 session of the state legislature, the committee will have only six weeks in which to make its recommendations.

While it is to be expected the governor will maintain close contact with the committee and have much to say about its final report, there is, nevertheless, an effort being made to have it appear that this so-called "blue ribbon" committee of citizens is being relied upon to set the policy for the state. In a sense the committee will be functioning somewhat in the position of a jury in a civil action. It will receive the evidence as it is collected by the University of Wisconsin experts and will proceed to draw a report upon that basis tempered somewhat by the information and inclinations of the individual members of the committee and probably by instruction from the governor beyond that which he already has given.

The revision committee appears to have been carefully selected with an eye to giving representation to the fields of education, business, labor and agriculture as well as to the field of politics in and out of the legislature.

To date there has been every indication that the governor's group of experts and his chosen revision committee are selected for the purpose of making a thorough and factual study of the Wisconsin tax problems such as Gov. Nelson suggested in his talk to the members at the first meeting. It is hard to imagine any more difficult problem being assigned to any committee. Because of the extreme importance of this work to everyone in the state and to the future welfare of the state the committee certainly deserves the best wishes of all in the work ahead.

Later Tavern Hours Are Not Compulsory

Gov. Nelson's decision to sign into law a bill permitting taverns to serve customers until 2 a.m. during the period of daylight saving time may have political importance in some areas of the state but we doubt it will cause much commotion in this vicinity. We think the governor showed both political wisdom and good common sense in signing the bill.

The measure originated with the resort operators scattered about Wisconsin who, for business reasons, are always interested in adding more time to the tavern day. They have had a good argument in the fact that Milwaukee taverns are permitted to remain open until 2 o'clock. In recent years they have added the point that daylight saving time cuts in on their evening business hours. Most people capable of taking a calm, disinterested view of the subject will concede that there is no justice or fairness in one hour advantage granted to Milwaukee taverns and on the other hand they will see clearly, too, that daylight saving time does cut into the evening hours of taverns and supper clubs to the extent of at least one hour.

Thus in all justice and fairness it was proper for the legislature to enact and for the governor to sign the bill putting northern resort owners on equal basis with the Milwaukee taverns. Those who would legislate on any other basis than justice and fairness are certainly a very distinct minority in the state of Wisconsin.

DeGaulle Makes Demands

There is nothing unusual in the demands of President Charles De Gaulle that England and the United States make some concessions to the national honour of France. De Gaulle always has been known for his personal arrogance and the recognition he asks would help him in his place of prestige and power. The problem for England and the U. S. is that De Gaulle's continued rule of France also is to their interest. But the price he is demanding is pretty high.

De Gaulle has asked for three things; that the three big powers confer more often on interests and responsibilities outside of the NATO areas; an equal voice for France in the possession and control of nuclear weapons based in NATO nations; and support for his policies in Algeria.

Clearly the first is a bid to be recognized again on equal footing with the United States and England, an effort to be "more equal" than other NATO members. Such cohesion could be of value in deterring Red aggression since it would present a more united front. But England, France and the United States do not agree in many instances. Red China is one area; Suez was another. Such a tripartite union also would be a slap in the face particularly for the German Federal Republic. One can recognize the need for unity and the practical place of big power politics, but it need not be quite so flagrant. There would definitely be uneasy feelings among some of the smaller nations, particularly those just emerging from colonial status.

According to United States law, the nuclear warheads sent by us to NATO bases must remain under our control. Information about their use can be given only to those nations which have developed pretty much on their own some degree of nuclear capacity. France has not and wants both the know-how and the weapons from us.

This particular matter is probably the most difficult of the three to decide. On the one hand is the increased danger of nuclear warfare when more people have the instruments and knowledge. There also is the possibility of France going communist and the resultant catastrophe for the free world. On the other hand, would such gifts help the economic and political stability of France which must be maintained and increased if France is to be of real value to the Western powers? The cost would be no more than our aid to other countries for stability purposes to stem communism.

De Gaulle's demand of backing for his Algerian policies is unrealistic both because he never announces those policies and because France has insisted over and over that Algeria is an internal problem and no business of either NATO or the United Nations. De Gaulle seems on the verge of a settlement of the Algerian mess within the next five years but our backing should no more be asked for than a vote of approval of the U. S. government's handling of the race problem in the Houses of Parliament.

President De Gaulle's position in France is of great value to the free world. He has made strides toward stability in France that were thought impossible two years ago. His continued influence is very much to the interest of England, the United States and other free nations. Much of the opposition to him in this country stems simply from his personality.

But France's stature in the free world must rest upon more than a hope of return to la gloire. The help De Gaulle wants to maintain his own position is too much and should not be necessary.

Farming Specialized, Mechanized Business

From the Lynchburg, Va., News

In Marengo, Illinois, a panel of farm experts discussed the new situation facing American farmers as a result of automation and business responsibilities in connection with farming operations. Someone even suggested a new word for a new combination of duties: Agri-business. It is a barbarous compound, which we hope will not get in the vocabulary, but it does describe something desirable in the present rural scene. It was brought out in the discussion that farming has become a field in which specialized knowledge is required for efficiency. The youthful president of the Future Farmers of America remarked that the beginner used to learn from Dad, but that even Dad is now bewildered by the new methods and the new machines. The same thing apparently applies frequently to the county agents, who have been the bulwark of better farming. The county agents find their knowledge unequal to the many demands made on them.

The problem was stated as to how to keep the best farm boys on the farm. The farm now has room for only about half of them, because production per head has grown enormously. Those that do go into the farming business face entirely new demands. The vocational director for the state of Utah said that for every farmer there was at least one other person supplying the know how. If the farm boys could acquire the necessary knowledge in high school and college, it would mean a great saving in farm income. In fact, competition will be so severe that such special knowledge will no longer be a luxury but an absolute requirement for survival. Mechanization has progressed to the point where it is predicted that electronic computing machines will soon have to be used for accurate planning. Farming, like the rest of our life, has undergone a great revolution. Marginal land, old-fashioned methods and machinery, unskilled labor and slipshod accounting are a thing of the past. Farm drudgery in the old sense will also be a thing of the past, an aspect of the operation that no one will regret.

Federally - Subsidized TVA Steals Business From Taxpaying North

From The Washington Office
Report by Melvin R. Laird

The pied piper of cheap power has already lured industry from New England and the midwest to the Tennessee valley area. While Wisconsin taxpayers have been contributing to the development of the TVA, the state of Tennessee and other sections of the south have been soliciting Wisconsin industry to move to and expand in the Tennessee valley area because of its abundant low-cost power.

Letters to business men and advertisements in the press have pointed out that "generally TVA power rates are 30 to 35 per cent below the national average." A Tennessee agency tells Wisconsin industry that a recent study for a small Northern manufacturer reveals that his annual power bill of $16,128 could be reduced to $8,000 in Tennessee.

This low-cost power is made possible by the subsidies paid by federal taxpayers including all of us in the seventh congressional district.

The U. S. senate will act this week on the house-passed legislation authorizing the Tennessee Valley authority to sell $750 million in bonds to finance an expansion program. This TVA legislation as it passed the house of representatives falls far short of either good judgment or constructive legislation.

The Tennessee Valley development, which includes a 7-state area, has already cost the federal taxpayers of our nation $1.2 billion. It cost $36 million a year just for interest on this part of the national debt. Yet the house-passed legislation gives TVA the go-ahead to borrow $750 million more on its own initiative with no budgetary control by congress or the bureau of the budget. This new debt would take precedence over the funds already owed to the federal government.

The legislation provides for a new repayment rate of $10 million a year. This repayment rate would stretch from 40 to 120 years, the time required for the TVA to return to the U. S. taxpayers what has already been spent. The amendment to double the annual repayment to the federal treasury was voted down by a substantial vote in the house of representatives. The chances of this bill being improved by the action of the Senate are quite remote.

Members of congress from areas outside the TVA area who follow the line of an expanded TVA operation without proper financial controls should have a lot of explaining to do at home to those whose jobs have or will disappear into the southeast.

active with no budgetary control by congress or the bureau of the budget. This new debt would take precedence over the funds already owed to the federal government.

Under the Capitol Dome Democrats Worried About Public Spending

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — The picture of a Democratic state administration and influential Democrats taking a cautious position on public spending may turn out to be the most significant political development of the year.

Underlying much of the surface discussion in the capitol today is a great worry of the ruling Democrats that the public patience with governmental spending trends may be nearly exhausted.

Gov. Nelson has repeatedly declared that he intends to review state spending in detail this summer, in preparation for final budget action at the fall session of the legislature. The implication is clear. He will be searching for ways to trim appropriations, rather than to increase them.

The state has set up extraordinary machinery to review the tax system and the impact of possible alternatives — again a clear sign of the perturbation of the administration about public reactions.

But there are other and more telling signs, such as the bitter blast the other day from the father confessor of many young Wisconsin liberals, W. T. Evjue of Madison.

Evjue fancies himself as a kind of elder statesman of Wisconsin liberalism and doesn't suffer defiance easily.

THE FLAG

In point of fact he is one of the powers of the Democratic party. Candidates pay court to him and the foot soldiers in the Democratic organization are known to tremble when he barks out his orders.

This is what the elderly militant told his followers the other day:

" . . . government in the United States is becoming too big and too expensive. Today government is becoming the master rather than the servant of the people. I offer the warning that government is becoming a burden on the American people they cannot afford."

As if that wasn't enough to make the liberal faithful rub their eyes in their astonishment, there was more:

"I pay approximately 50 per cent of my income to the government through a federal income tax. My state income tax has increased two and one half times since 1951. The city tax on my home has increased from $771 to $1,140 today. I can afford this. But there are millions of citizens who can't afford to pay the gigantic tribute that is necessary to maintain the huge office holding bureaucracy entrenched in government . . ."

Resisting the temptation to remember that such sentiments out of the mouth of a Republican would bring the scornful epithet "reactionary," what does such an outburst from a citadel of self-professed liberalism mean for a new Democratic state administration that has just settled down to its tasks?

THE PINCH

It explains, perhaps, the eagerness of the state regime to adopt a withholding system which will ease the pain of taxation. It accounts for the careful phrasing in the political publicity, including the "hold the line" demands and the "bare bones" descriptive for Democratic budgets. It might also disclose the meaning of the labored phrase "technical tax revisions" for such plain boosts in consumer taxes that Gov. Nelson has already proposed, including those on beer, wine and tobacco products.

The pinch is becoming more obvious. Hundreds of thousands of taxpayers with the inflation of their incomes have been pushed into tax brackets that were academic in earlier years — that applied only to the "rich." The legislative financiers would probably have their eyes opened if they subpoenaed for testimony the officials who are in charge of delinquent tax collections, state and federal.

A greedy governmental spending system is bringing its reaction, and Democrats are obviously disturbed about it.

Protection Against Polio Is Incomplete

From The Wisconsin Medical Journal

The protection of the public against paralytic polio is dangerously incomplete. Despite the fact 64,500,000 persons of all age groups have had a full series of inoculations, 97,600,000 have had none at all. Of the young people under 20 years of age, better than 13,000,000 are still unvaccinated. Even more appalling is the fact that one third of the children under five have not had a single dose of vaccine. And statistics for the first quarter of 1959 show an increase of 83 per cent in paralytic cases over the same period a year ago. Frankly, health and medical authorities fear these facts constitute an invitation to epidemic disaster like the one in Detroit last year.

The American Medical association, United States Public Health service and the National Foundation have all agreed community action offers the only real hope for the fullest possible protection of the public.

The cooperation of physicians is urgently sought to insure maximum protection for individuals, families and communities.

Local methods to reach the unvaccinated must be worked out by local leaders — physicians included.

This is a last minute call for action. The summer months are upon us. Let not Wisconsin accept an invitation to disaster.

Hard Work Sums Up Long Fight For Air Service

First Flight July 1 Ends Six Years of Struggle by Supporters

The 6-year fight to get air service for the Fox Cities "if you go out and through the Outagamie county airport can be summed up in two words—hard work."

Hard work especially for the private citizens and business organizations who carried the fight through long months of great expectations, bitter disappointments and frustrating confusion. Their efforts have been rewarded with success.

Air service has begun with a single flight daily, but major problems remain to be solved. Airline Objects Still to be resolved is the conflict between North Central Airlines and the civil aeronautics board—not over IF air service should be provided, but HOW it should be provided. The airline maintains that it is happy to serve Appleton, but objects to a CAB ruling that it must also provide service to Marshfield on the same route.

North Central, although it bowed to the CAB order to begin service here on the route, has taken its case to the federal courts. The story of the Fox Cities' successful bid for air service begins in the fall of 1953 at the dedication of the Outagamie county airport.

Can't Miss Appleton and Outagamie county "can't miss" getting commercial air service. Howard Morey, then president of North Central, told the dedication audience.

In two separate talks during the weekend dedication program, the airline president indicated that his firm was ready to build a case for air service.

A survey of Fox Cities business firms showed that they spent a total of $26,425.74 for air travel in 1952, despite the fact that the nearest airport was 25 miles away. The survey showed that 2,433 salesmen and businessmen used air transportation into the Fox Cities during 1952.

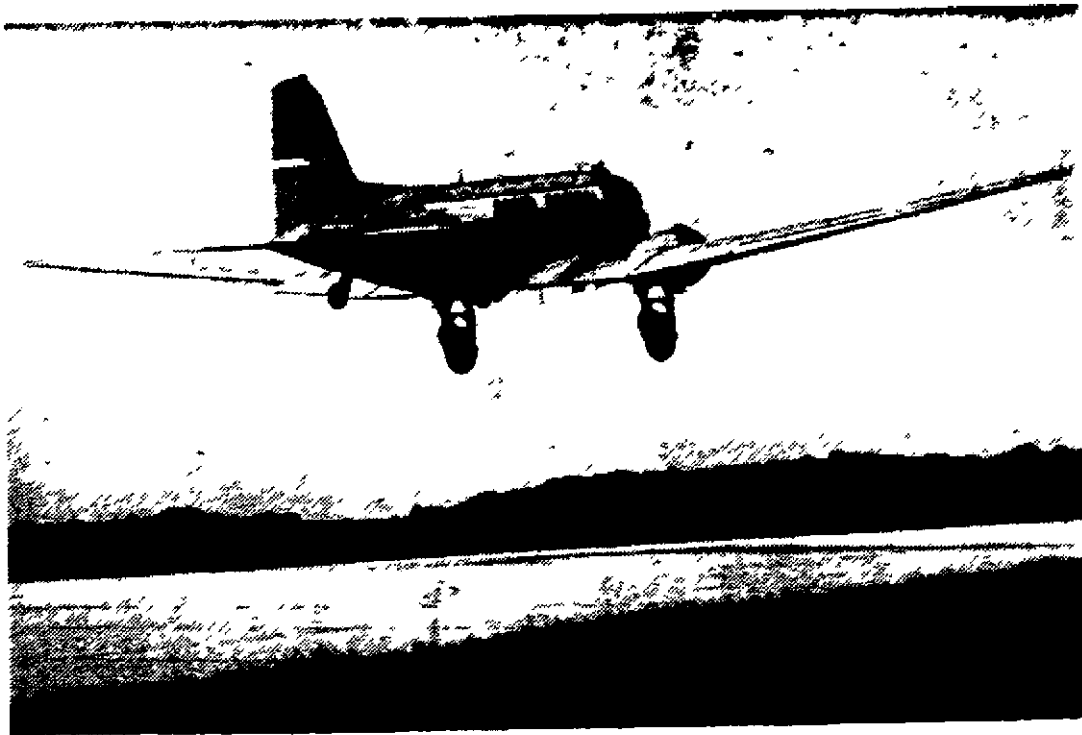

Another method used by the chamber to document the air service case was a ticket stub saving plan. About 1,000 stubs were collected from Fox Cities airline travelers during a 2-month survey in September and October of 1955. The figure was well over the potential 300 trips monthly needed for air service certification.

It was in 1955 that the first organized reaction to the air service case was a ticket stub saving plan. About 1,000 stubs were collected from Fox Cities airline travelers during a 2-month survey in September and October of 1955. The figure was well over the potential 300 trips monthly needed for air service certification.

Postmaster Francis H. Sumnicht looks over part of two boxes of air mail flight covers which stamp-collectors have mailed to the Appleton post office from all parts of the world. The covers will be mailed out on the first flight from the Outagamie county airport. Sumnicht has received covers from Poland, Germany, Czechoslovakia, Iceland and all parts of the U. S.

This is the type of plane that will serve the Outagamie County airport when commercial air service is inaugurated in the Fox Cities Wednesday. It is a DC3, one of 32 owned by North Central Airlines, shown taking off.

Service Begins Wednesday Fulcer Will Cut Ribbon At Airport Ceremonies

County board Chairman Alvin Fulcer will cut the ribbon Mitchell, Gus A. Zuehlke, president of the Chamber of Commerce; William Pifer, Appleton July 1, John Hayes, chairman of the airport committee of the Chamber of Commerce and Hal N. Carr, president of North Central.

The welcoming ceremonies will be at 11:04 a. m. Wednesday, when the first regularly scheduled North Central landing takes place at the Outagamie County airport.

Fulcer will welcome the airline to the city formally. As the plane lands it will be greeted by a fanfare group from the Americanos Drum and Bugle corps. A color guard from the Marine corps, cago at 2:23 p. m.

the Army, Air Force and Navy will display the flags.

A training flight of F104F jet planes from Truax field in Madison may maneuver overhead as the ceremonies take place.

The landing ceremonies will probably take about 10 minutes—seven minutes longer than the scheduled landing period. Officials expect to make up the time later in the flight.

Flight 245 will leave Chicago at 9:30 a. m. daily, including Sunday, going to Milwaukee, Appleton, Clintonville, Stevens Point, Eau Claire and Minneapolis, arriving at 1:29 p. m.

Formerly the flight stopped at Manitowoc and Green Bay, skirting Appleton.

The southbound flight will originate in Minneapolis at 10:30 a. m., arrive in Appleton at 12:54 p. m. and in Chicago at 2:23 p. m.

County Airport History Is Tale of 'Might Have Been'

Almost a Reality in 1928, Almost Located in Calumet County in '42

BY JACK HOLZHUETER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"For of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these: 'It might have been'!"

When John Greenleaf Whittier wrote that couplet as part of his epic "Maud Muller," he might well have been applying his words to the Outagamie County airport.

Why? Because the county airport "might have been" in Calumet county, serving all of the Fox Cities equally. The county airport "might have been" a reality back in 1928, had the Fox Cities been ready for air service after Lindbergh completed his famous flight. The county airport "might have had" commercial air service as far back as 1942, if the county board had heeded the recommendations of experts. As it is, the airport finally is receiving commercial air service 17 years after agitation began, and 49 years after the first plane touched ground in Appleton. And the present facilities will have to be expanded mightily to accommodate the new fleet of Convair planes acquired by North Central airlines, the line serving Appleton.

Plane Here in 1911
Fox Cities residents couldn't have been more surprised by their first exposure to the great iron bird, than were the Indians at Red Banks when they were encountered by "Thunder in His Hands" Jean Nicolet.

Sept 3 and 4, 1911, Calbraith P. Rodgers, winner of the international endurance flight record, shipped his plane to Appleton for an exhibition.

Rodgers was given a $2,000 guarantee for exhibits on lot of activity at the new airport. The Appleton Post-Crescent predicted that at least 7,000 passengers to Milwaukee, Chicago and the Dakotas and hundreds of thrill seekers took Sunday afternoon rides over the valley.

Classes Given
Classes were started for young pilots and mechanics. In June, 1929, a class of the flight site could watch six pilots and four mechanics of the demonstration without paying admission.

Rodgers was subsidized by local businessmen, however, plane for an aerial bridge and the exhibition was considered a success.

After 1911, little took place in Fox Cities airplane circles until 1928, when the fever of excitement created by Charles A. Lindbergh's transatlantic flight touched the area. The outcome was an airfield, located on old Highway 41 between Appleton and Menasha, and an airline that had flights from Chicago to Marinette, Wis.

George A. Whiting airfield, named for the Neenah industrialist who donated money for the project, was the brainchild of Eric Lindberg, in cooperation with Karl Haugen, H. A. DeBauer, George H. Schmidt and Fred Schlitz. The field was on 100 acres of the Micheal Wittman farm, about 3½ miles south of Appleton.

In March, 1928, the land was leased for a 5-year period, and a few days later the first plane, "The Pride of Appleton," touched down to start the first brief period of commercial air service to Appleton.

Grand Predictions
Hopes ran high for the new airline, the North American Airways. One of the officials, in a speech at Green Bay, ventured, "I'll predict that in 10 years, people will be living in Green Bay and will work in Milwaukee and Chicago, commuting every day."

Other parts of his prediction came true, but his boast about commuting to Chicago daily came a trifle too early for the Fox Cities. Whiting field itself did not live long enough to see air service expand beyond the beginning stage.

Nevertheless there was a 600 guarantee for exhibits on lot of activity at the new airport. The Appleton Post-Crescent predicted that at least 7,000 passengers to Milwaukee, Chicago and the Dakotas and hundreds of thrill seekers took Sunday afternoon rides over the valley.

Classes Given
Classes were started for young pilots and mechanics. In June, 1929, a class of the flight site could watch six pilots and four mechanics of the demonstration without paying admission.

On one occasion, four Appleton women went up in the local businessmen, however, plane for an aerial bridge and the exhibition was considered a success.

After 1911, little took place

Chicago to see the White Sox play.

Sometimes flights had to be canceled because Whiting field's two 1,600-foot grass runways were too muddy, even though the airport was classed as an all-weather strip. Once, however, the Pride of Appleton smashed into a fence when the field was too muddy for the plane to get aloft.

Later, two smaller planes, "Lady Neenah" and "Lady Menasha" were added. At one time, nine planes were housed at the port.

When Herbert Hoover was elected president Nov. 6, 1928, a special edition of the Milwaukee Journal was printed and rushed to North American's three planes, which were standing by at Milwaukee.

Newspaper Delivery
The editions were flown to every large city within a 275-mile radius of Milwaukee, the first time a paper had been delivered by air in the history of Wisconsin.

The main aim of the airline, however, was to get a government contract to use the field to fly air mail—a lucrative business in 1928. It was a big day when on Dec. 15, 1928, the first delivery and pickup of airmail began at Whiting field, but it was another line that had the contract.

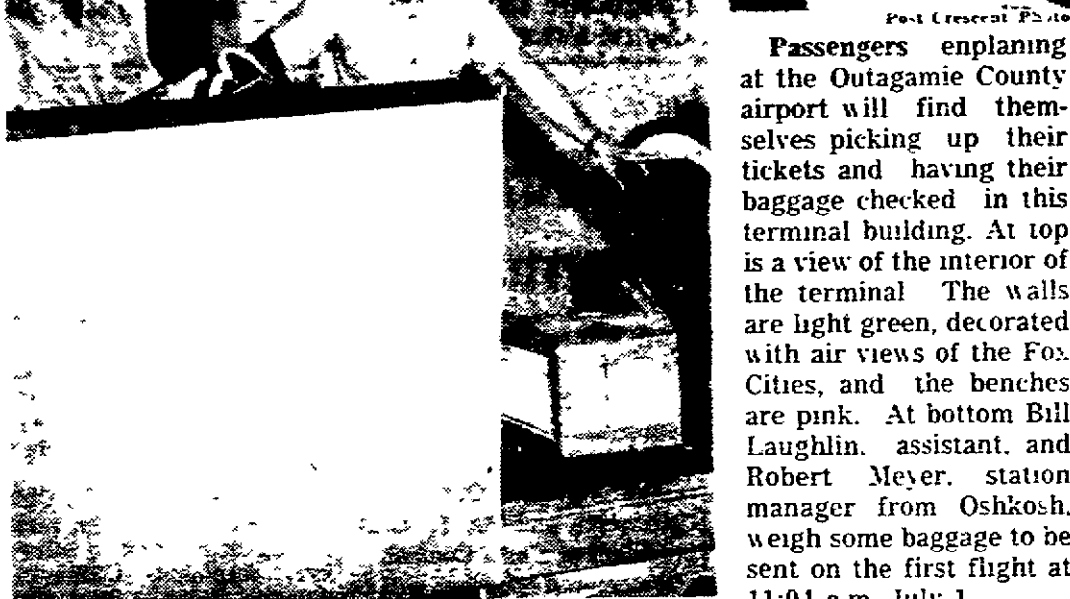

The government awarded the mail contract to North-west Airways, and "a gigantic tri-motored 16-passenger Ford plane" brought in the first sackful of mail at 8:40 a.m. on that wintry Saturday.

The common council was so impressed by the fact of airmail service that it voted $2,000 to establish an air mail station at the field. The venture was successful for about two years, when the novelty wore off. Poor field facilities and inadequate planes also aided the cessation of service in 1930.

Closed in 1930
This was the beginning of the end for the airport. The final blow came shortly after when the corporation lost a civil suit in which a flier sued for damages done to his plane.

The corporation filed bankruptcy proceedings as the port by a railroad track Smoke-closed in mid-1930. The North American airline ended its operations shortly after that.

In March, 1934, a farsighted county board spent $11,000 to purchase 102 acres near County Highway 41 and County Trunk Highway 10, for a port—the same prop-

Inadequate in 1942
It was evident, that while north of the old port and Highway 41 in the towns of Grand Chute and Vandenberg, it was not adequate for commercial air service brook.

2 A similar-sized plot south of Highway 10 and about a mile and a half west of the Triangle school.

3 A section of land in Calumet County, just north of Highway 10 and 114 and about two miles east of Waukegan beach.

Calumet Site Approved
The committee decided the Calumet county site was best, being almost equidistant from all of the Fox Cities and having a favorable natural topography. It was also the only site eligible for federal aid.

The county board decided it was a matter for the voters to decide. And they did. In April, 1944, the voters approved construction on the Calumet county site, by a vote of 8,305 to 5,684. Appleton vot-

Airport Investment Nearly $330,000

Built in 1953 for Airline Use

A county investment of 500 feet and a third 1 650 feet somewhat less than a third of The hangars were built in a million dollars spread over 1938 at a cost of $8 893

Minimum Expense
During World war II, the county kept expenses at a minimum. In 1943, 1944 and 1945, it spent a total of $122 85 41 and County Trunk E. and on the port. In 1946, it loosened the county $11 000 in the pursestrings somewhat March 1934. The only addition and spent $4 475 for improvement property purchased was three-quarters of it for about 60 acres bought in 1952 the use of county equipment from Nick Hietpas and Bert Weyenberg for $34 200 representing a total property investment of $45 200

The first port was nothing more than a series of grass strips and a few small hangars. Robert M. Connolly designed and supervised construction of the first facilities, including three turf runways one 2,700 feet long, another 2,500 feet long, and a third 1,650 feet long. The hangars were built in a million dollars spread over 1938 at a cost of $8 893

By 1949, agitation for a paved runway began again. Supporters of the proposal pointed out that such a runway would classify the port as a class III commercial airport. Finally, in 1951, steps were taken to provide the Outagamie County port with such a strip. Estimated construction cost of port improvements made between 1951 and Oct. 1, 1953 was about $200 000. The total costs were $200 000, including $141 275 for grading, drainage, lighting, lighting, surfacing and turfing, and $18,000 for engineering services. The state and county governments contributed 25 per cent each of the costs and the federal government 50 per cent.

In addition the county had about $64 000 invested in the port before the 1953 improvements were started. Making the total county investment in the port in 1953 about $265 000.

That year the county installed 36 white lights along the sides of the runway, six green lights on each end, a beeper on each end and a beacon on each end. The entire 3,750-foot strip was paved with asphalt. The runway itself is a 3,750-foot strip, the 120 by 100 foot apron and the 100 by 40 foot taxiway leading from the apron in front of the hangars to the landing strip.

Runway Sloped
The runway itself is a 3,750-foot strip, the 120 by 100 foot apron and the 100 by 40 foot taxiway leading from the apron in front of the hangars to the landing strip.

Land at the southeast corner provides enough space for another runway of about 3,000 feet. Such a runway would be necessary when cross winds are heavy enough to prevent landing and takeoffs on the southwest-northeast strip.

The cross strip is part of an airport improvement schedule now being considered.

New Building
Buildings at the port in 1953 were an administration building, shop, a large hangar and another hangar for storing small planes.

Since then the county has added a prefabricated metal terminal building costing 375,000 and a cyclone structure connected with the apron fence separating the drive in front of the hangars by a way area from the apron. The terminal building, the long narrow 34 by 24-foot structure containing an admissions office, a waiting room and a baggage room. Eventually the temporary building will become the airport office.

At the same time that the landing strip was dedicated, agitation was renewed to gain commercial air service for Appleton.

By 1955 the demand for air service grew to the point where the Fox Cities joined to gather evidence and file a brief with the Civil Aeronautics board to go through extensive hearings. On Dec. 13, 1958, the CAB finally recommended service for this area.

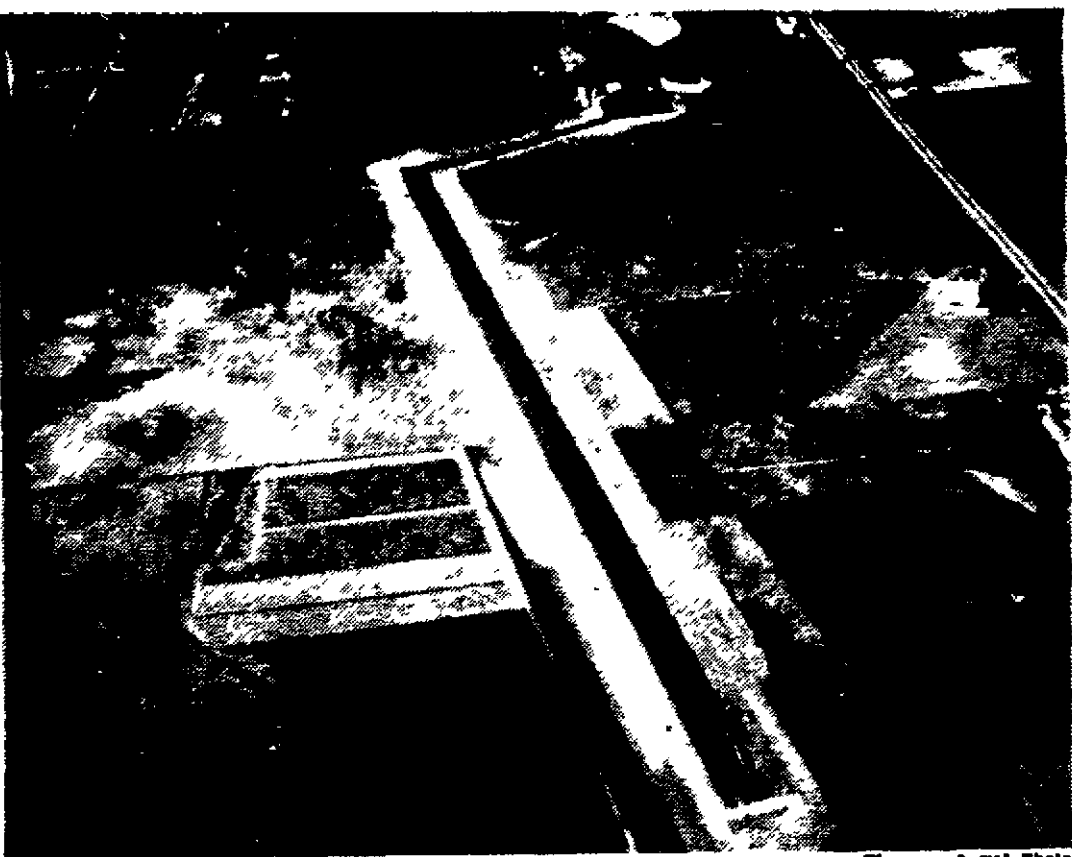

In preparation for the service to be given by North Central Airlines, the county was forced to make token improvements on its port, including constructing a small temporary terminal building.

The $6 500 34 by 24 foot prefabricated metal terminal was built in August, 1958, as an attachment to the old airport office building. At the same time minor grounds improvements were made and a fence constructed bringing the costs to $7 500.

Other improvements are needed to enable the port to handle the larger planes. North Central will inaugurate into flight soon. They include extending the main runway, a cross runway and a permanent terminal that would cost nearly $230 000. The county, state and federal governments would split the expenses.

But progress towards building the new facilities has been slow, and today the Outagamie County airport remains substantially as it was in 1953—which was not much of an improvement over 1934.

Its story is still of an airport that "might have been" many things for the Fox Cities.

This is the Outagamie County airport looking west. The long blacktop strip is the 3 750-foot runway, leading to a short taxi strip and the landing apron at the top of the photo. The port was constructed in 1953. Since then, a temporary terminal building has been built next to the old airport buildings west of the landing apron.

More You Have, More You Want

Two out of three people yearn for larger incomes — mostly to spend on luxuries.

This was indicated, according to a poll of 100 couples whose annual income was less than $10,000. The survey also showed that the highest proportion of dissatisfied people is in the middle income group, high-est among the people whose annual income is between $10,000 and $20,000.

come in the two groups is $10,000 or more a year in present income. The poll showed that "where you live influences your contentment." It also brought out that more husbands than wives are dissatisfied with their present incomes. The survey also showed that the highest proportion of contentment is found among people in the middle income group.

Long Struggle for Air Service Over

service push appeared. A newly-organized citizens committee, sparked by Al C. Fisher, 20th ward supervisor, said that the county airport run-way would not suffice in the event that North Central switched to larger aircraft. By mid-July, 1956, air service proponents were ready to take their case to a meeting with the CAB at Omaha, Neb. A brief was filed with the board and four Appleton men were selected to present the case for air service. They were Raymond Dohr, county corporation counsel; Max Sagunsky, airport manager; Kenneth Corbett, chamber secretary, and William Pifer, chairman of the chamber airport committee.

At the time the four men went to Omaha, three county supervisors, Fischer, Charles Hervey and William Kilsdonk sent a letter to the CAB protesting enlargement of the airport. Sagunsky told the CAB that since his appointment as airport manager in 1953, he and his employees had received a large number of airline inquiries regarding facilities at the airport. Pifer showed population statistics to point up the need for air service and Corbett emphasized the area's economic growth.

In December, 1957, a little over a year after the Omaha hearings, a CAB examiner made the decision that air service backers had been waiting for—he recommended that the Outagamie county airport be made an intermediate stop on a new route between Minneapolis - St. Paul and Milwaukee. The examiner said service should run between the Twin Cities, Marshfield, Appleton, and on to Milwaukee. It looked as though air service might be just around the corner, but North Central filed an objection to the CAB-proposed route. It described Appleton as a "weak link" in the Twin Cities-Milwaukee route, asserting that the Oshkosh airport satisfied needs for a Fox Valley stop on the route. North Central proposed Appleton as a stop between the Twin Cities and Chicago, bypassing Green Bay, Oshkosh and Manitowish.

The CAB upheld the examiner's ruling and made Appleton a stop on the Twin-Cities-Milwaukee route. Air service was expected soon, a North Central official said, but litigation continued and the airline took its case to court. North Central emphasized that the Fox Cities should be on its main route and not on what it called a "back door" route as certified by the CAB. Gordon Bubolz, former state senator and prominent business man, wrote a strongly worded letter to Rep. John W. Byrnes asking the congressman to make stronger representations of Appleton's case to the CAB. In a reply to Bubolz, Byrnes rejected the idea of using pressure on the CAB and blamed North Central for the delay in getting air service. He denied the airline's argument that to begin service on the CAB-approved route would prejudice its appeal to the CAB or the courts. In February the CAB issued its long-awaited ruling. It ordered North Central to begin air service within 90 days. North Central appealed — staying execution of the order. The CAB denied the appeal in April and deadline for service was set June 8. The battle for air service was won, except for an anti-Cities, Marshfield, Appleton, climactic skirmish when the airline asked for, and was granted, a deadline extension to July 1.

On the House

Travelweary Charlie Encounters Friendship, Humor on Canoe Trip

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Canoe Trip Potpourri: Often, when I arrived at large communities, camping sites were not available so I would sleep where I could.

House looking as I was. I appeared as dirty a man as has ever been seen.

The room clerk at the hotel agreed with some reluctance that a room was available. She had trouble asking the question, but she did.

"With bath?" she asked.

Almost a Fight

Near St Andrews Quebec, I was having some language difficulties. My French was not good enough to help me and it seemed that everyone could speak no English. I was trying to find a portage route — the historic one — and wished to take only that one.

Then a polite fellow in his mid-30s came to me and said he could speak English. He was Yvon Weighman, a fascinating fellow who not only solved my problem but who helped me with the portage. In return for his kindness, and because I liked him, I invited him to join me at dinner at a not so very fine restaurant which was the only one nearby.

I learned that Yvon was a strange mixture of French Canadian with an Irish heritage. During our dinner, he discussed the many fights which often took place in the restaurant. He told me, in his French accents, that his Irish blood had often got the better of him and that he frequently had found himself embroiled in fights.

"But," he said, "I have now reached zee age where I know zat fighteeng wiz zee fists is foolleesh."

Battles are Fun

Later a half-dozen ruffians entered the restaurant and near-north port. I had a few argued back and forth. A worries fight seemed imminent.

Yvon who knew none of the day about nine years ago ruffians but was apparently when, as a reporter for another Wisconsin newspaper, I had written a news story about the city of Oconto which was not well received by the people of that city.

Though my story, which concerned tax rates, was precisely accurate, an editor had pulled a small fact into the headline. The effect was a disservice to the people of Oconto and I was the object of wrath. More than 500 proud citizens wrote me in anger and buried many a verbal butts.

Thus, nine years later as I approached Oconto I wondered if I would be remembered; unkindly. But the fears were groundless; though I was remembered for the story, the people were so nice to me that I knew I was reaching home.

Felt at Home
Oconto's Donald Bond, suspecting that my finances were running low, offered to help me with a gift of money. Members of the Oconto Yacht club where I had stopped were so kind that I was deeply impressed.

The club manager, Charlie, insisted upon feeding me. Oscar Nelson, a member, hosted me and did everything he could to make me feel at home and comfortable.

As I was enjoying these friendships and others, I turned to the doorway and my heart felt a bit. Walking in was Grant Urquhart, the man who was mayor during the time of the unfortunate affair which had Oconto vs. House. I made a quick calculation that my welcome would soon be thin.

But the former mayor greeted me warmly as an old friend, then took me to his beautiful home—dirty as I was—and provided me with a welcome shower, clean pajamas and a soft, wonderful bed.

So if in my future writings I indicate strong fondness for Oconto and the people there, please try to remember how warmly I was greeted when I was weary and dirty — and a little afraid to stoop.

The decision was a victory for William L. Greene, who was fired in 1953 from an $18-a-year job as a vice president of Engineering and Research corporation, in Riverdale, Md. The firing followed navy revocation of a clearance for Greene.

Chief Justice Warren, explaining the court's ruling, said:

Some officials interpreted this to mean that the program could be continued if the fair, including Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Maj. John Eisenhower, the president's son, got hopelessly cut off from the touring party after the first few minutes.

Kozlov met the president in the Coliseum lobby and greeted him in loud and hearty Russian. An interpreter translated for Eisenhower.

Eisenhower and his host rode an escalator to the first exhibition floor, with Kozlov chatting all the way. One of the first things the president saw was the first stage of what the Soviets billed as their cosmic racket—the kind they say reached the vicinity of the sun earlier this year.

"Just think of the millions and millions of miles," Eisenhower mused in looking at the vehicle.

"Every effort is being made to render all possible aid to those injured or otherwise affected by the tragic accident," Burns said.

Heads Rescue Efforts

Brig. Gen. Dale Smith, commander of the 313th Air division, took personal charge of rescue operations. An emergency first aid station and a morgue were set up in an undamaged part of the elementary school, whose windows were shattered by the crash.

After receiving first aid, 45 of the injured, including many children, were carried by American helicopters to the Ryukyu army hospital.

The plane struck the roof of the school's sixth grade classroom where a class was in progress. The teacher was hospitalized.

Within minutes after the crash, fire equipment was moving through the narrow streets of the city to the scene. A long line of village youths formed a bucket brigade.

Tomorrow he meets with President Eisenhower, after a session with Sec. of State Christian A. Herter. Kozlov spent an hour yesterday showing Eisenhower the exhibition. The president seemed much impressed, and there was much to impress him. The 10,000 displays sprawl over six acres, and take up three floors of New York's Coliseum, a huge new building at Columbus circle.

After paying the admission price, a dollar for adults and half a dollar for children, the first thing the visitor sees is a reminder of the Russian son.

Traffic Deaths Show Rise

Chicago — P— The nation's traffic deaths, showing a rise in each of the first five months this year, are 5 per cent higher than for the first five months of 1958.

Traffic accidents from Jan. 1 to June 1 killed 13,940 and probably accounted for a half million disabling injuries, the National Safety council reported yesterday.

May's death toll of 3,250 was 8 per cent higher than the 3,010 in May 1958. This year's 5-month total compared to 13,280 for the corresponding period last year.

Studies Paintings

Then he moved on to a scale model of an atomic powered Soviet ship, the ice breaker Lenin. Kozlov beamed with pride in pointing it out.

"That's what we use atomic power for," Eisenhower was told.

Eisenhower looked at Kozlov, smiled slowly and remarked:

"I've been preaching that for six years."

The tour went on through exhibits of Soviet automobiles, women's fashions, heavy machinery, and Russian ballet and theater.

Amateur artist Eisenhower spent the most time—about 15 minutes—carefully studying Soviet paintings.

At one point the Soviet ambassador to the United States, Mikhail Menshikov, urged the president to say which of the paintings he liked best.

"You have so many lovely things," Eisenhower protested. "I am too much of an amateur to tell you which I like best."

He finally picked one showing a group of peasants on a raft in bright sunlight. Painted by Y. Ramos, it was entitled "On a Raft."

A Soviet guide called the president's attention to another titled "The End—Last Days of Hitler." It showed Hitler in the Berlin underground shelter where he is believed to have ended his life near the close of World War II.

The president gazed at the painting a moment, shook his head and then remarked in allusion to Hitler:

"He was crazy—crazy."

Immune From Suits

In one of several libel rulings, the court held 5-4 that policy-making government officials are immune from libel suits in making statements to the press on matters under their control. The majority opinion said some injustices might result, "but we think that price a necessary one to pay for the greater good."

The justice department had contended in the case that democratic government depends on the public's knowledge of governmental policies and the conduct of government officials.

In a related 6-3 opinion, the court said military officers also are immune from suits in forwarding official reports to members of congress.

Another 5-4 ruling held that radio and television stations have immunity from libel suits for statements made by candidates in political speeches. The federal law which requires stations to provide equal time to all candidates for an office also forbids censorship of such speeches by the station.

Hit School's Using Tax Aid Windfall

Taxpayer's Group Says Council Should Control $19,800 Windfall

The battle about who should only the amount of the budget earmark the budget for Appleton approved by the common pleon schools — the city council — and further, that council or the board of education any expenditure in excess of $19,800 state aid — has entered a new phase.

A protest letter sent Monday to the Appleton Taxpayer's association to Mayor Mitchell states that the city council should have authorized the spending $19,800 state aid windfall received and already almost spent by the levy request of the board of school board.

School board officials repeatedly have insisted that once they have money in their hands, they can spend it for school use as they see fit.

State Base Changed The extra money was received by the school board two months ago, when the state changed its base for figuring attendance aids. The change resulted in an extra $19,800 being given to Appleton schools. The school board already has earmarked more than $12,000 of the windfall for school improvements.

The taxpayer's group, however, insists that the school board "has authority to spend

City Eyes Plans for High Bridge Carrier

Appleton will not wait for the regional planning commission to recommend traffic carriers outside the city at its far southeast limits. Instead, city planners Monday ordered the engineering department to resurrect an old, informal official map of street extensions in the outlying area so that the map can be brought up to date and adopted officially.

The action was urged on the planners by Ald. Thomas K. Schneider, who said the city cannot afford to wait for the regional plan.

Far one thing, he commented that the new high level bridge will be open to traffic in December and no route connecting the bridge to the south of Kaukauna, as proposed three years ago, has been located.

For another, he said the projected streets, in the area bounded on the east by the Speel school road and on the south by Calumet street extended eastward, will have to conform with streets in the Schaefer plat, now being considered by city planners.

The commission, he explained, should know how the Schaefer plat streets will work in light of the undeniable growth that will come to the southeast.

As a specific example, he said the city may want to require platters to furnish right of way for an extension straight north to Newberry street of the Lake Park road in the town of Harrison. The road presently ends at Calumet street extended now.

Some consideration also should be given, he said, to a proposed bypass road that would come from Menasha or the town of Kaukauna, skirting the present city limits to the south and east. Such a road is shown on the 4-year-old, so-called Barton plan.

Candee?

The street committee Monday afternoon agreed that it should get together with the regional and city planning commissions on the bridge route before entering talks with the county highway committee.

One street committeeman said talks with the county could not result in anything concrete unless the city knows what it wants.

Candee street extended eastward, offered as a bridge carrier three years ago by both the county highway committee and Regional Planner Clarence Hammond, was mentioned Monday in both committee meetings as a possibility, but it was quickly pointed out there will be opposition because of the need to condemn some existing homes in order to widen the street.

Informal OK Given Joint CD Details

Finance Committee Told Appleton to Pay Fourth of Cost

Details of a joint county-city civil defense establishment were informally approved Monday by the city council's finance committee.

The details, which Mayor Mitchell said had been worked out in a morning meeting with the county, include:

1. Appleton will pay 25 per cent of costs.
2. A 10-member commission will run the program and hire a director.
3. The director will be paid about $5,000 a year and have offices at the courthouse.

Quarter Plus

Finance committeemen were quick to point out that the 25 per cent of cost figure is in addition to the more than 50 per cent of county taxes paid by the city.

The joint commission, the mayor said, would be composed of the county board's five executive committeemen and five members representing the city government.

Mitchell suggested that the city designate its present 4-member CD commission and spell out in an ordinance how to select a fifth representative.

(The city CD commission is composed of the mayor, the fire chief, the chief of police and the president of the council.)

Finance committeemen said they would like to see the chairman of the council's public safety committee made the fifth member.

There will be no attempt to hire a director, the mayor reported, until procedures for hiring are established in ordinances to be adopted jointly by the county and the city.

Efforts to create a combined program spring from a feud between County Coordinator Andrew J. Schiltz and resigned Appleton Director Robert C. Beltrone.

Start of ordinance adopting procedures must await legislative action permitting such joint organizations. County Corporation Counsel Raymond P. Dohr said Monday morning. Such a bill is before the legislature, he reported.

State Explains 41's Two Lanes

Skipped Fond du Lac Road Due to Need At Neenah, Oshkosh

Madison — Need dictated a 13-mile gap in the dual lane construction of Highway 41 in Fond du Lac county, Chairman Harold Plummer of the state highway commission said Monday.

John Borkol, Fond du Lac highway commissioner, protested in a Sunday newspaper about the gap in the northern part of his county while double lining was in progress in Winnebago county.

The commission, Plummer said, "started where the need was greatest" and the most urgent need for construction was in the Neenah and Oshkosh areas.

Temporary Gap

The Fond du Lac county gap is a temporary one, he said, and will be closed as soon as financing and planning make it possible.

Borkol called the commission's plan a blunder and complained about a traffic bottleneck in Fond du Lac county, the only gap in the double-laning north from Milwaukee to the site of construction in Outagamie county. He said pressure will be put on the commission for construction approvals.

Plummer said the commission's schedule tentatively calls for start of work on the Fond du Lac county leg in 1961.

Grading and ballast construction comes first, with actual surfacing following the next year, the financing and planning indicate now.

The latest audit of the defunct Appleton Housing authority shows a bank balance of $3,259 last Jan. 1, the council's finance committee was told Monday.

Efforts to disband the authority await enabling legislation by the state legislature. City Clerk Broehm said. Such a bill reportedly is before the legislature.

When the authority is legally disbanded, the remaining funds will be turned over to the city's general funds to be applied against the next tax levy.

Committee Okays Voucher Plan for Car Allowances

A mileage voucher for all city employees receiving a car allowance was developed Monday by the city council's finance committee.

It asks the employee to list his speedometer reading at the start and close of each day and to subtract any personal business travel.

The voucher has been forthcoming for several years as councilmen listened to some employees complain they were not being paid enough for use of their cars.

Committeemen freely admit there is a second reason: They do not believe some claims of miles traveled each day.

Other committee actions: City Clerk Broehm's tabulation of fees for various licenses and permits was ordered held for more study. It shows the charges made by the Appleton council and those made by eight other state cities. In only two of the 39 charges is the city's price lower than average, the tabulation shows.

Broehm reported he has received no data from the state about what others are doing in establishing a policy for compulsory retirement of employees at a certain age. The committee decided to withhold action until the data is available.

John Street May be Ready By Mid-July

Lower John street from the Walter avenue intersection to Interlake mill should be open to traffic sometime in mid-July, state highway commission engineers predict.

Workers have completed the travel lanes, the engineers said, and are working on the curb and gutter.

Engineers report these other developments at the construction site:

Pickers of Appleton Laborers' Local 931 are still carrying their cards of protest of non-union wages paid by the state contractors.

Steel Ready

Steel has been arriving daily since last week. A final load today is expected to provide enough for completion of a third of the bridge. Steel will be erected from Pier 7 in mid-river to the east abutment, probably starting this week.

About three more pours of concrete this week should complete work on the supporting piers.

Nearly a third of the concrete approach from Walter avenue to the river is finished and work is continuing.

The bidding:

North East South West
1 C Pass 1 H 4 D
Pass Pass 5 C Pass
5 H Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead:

Ace of diamonds.

Up to a point, the bidding on this hand is good. North's opening bid of 1-club is standard because he did not have a 5-card major suit and had to substitute his best minor suit. The 1-heart response by South is normal as is West's preemptive bid of four diamonds. Now, we have arrived at the crossroad. North's pass of West's bid is open to debate. It is true that North had a minimum opening bid and it is normal to pass a minimum back to partner for further action. However, North ran a bad risk here and he knew it. If he passed four diamonds, South might bid five clubs and North would then have to return to five hearts rather than to have the final contract set at four hearts. It is my opinion that North should have bid four hearts rather than pass. Yes, North runs the risk that South might bid again over four hearts but that's the chance that he must take. It is also most interesting to note the damage that preemptive bids do to normal hands.

West led the ace of diamonds and then switched to his singleton spade. East took the spade and returned a spade which West trumped. A second diamond was played by West to "kill" dummy's king and East trumped as South overtrumped.

South now drew two trumps and got a perfect count on West's hand — nine diamonds, one spade, two hearts and, therefore, one club. Declarer hopes that it might be either the nine or ten. He led the jack of clubs from dummy and East covered with the queen as declarer won the king. West dropping the nine. Dummy was entered with a spade and the seven of clubs was played. East played small as did South and West showed out. Declarer claimed the balance of tricks and was set one trick. The result was tragic in a sense, but I have an idea that many declarers might have been set in four hearts so chalk up a well-played hand for South and to North goes the award for putting South overboard.

In Good Taste Basement May be Used For Parties

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Several of our friends who live in the suburbs have finished basements in which they do all their entertaining. I can see using this room for an occasional big party but many of them never entertain anywhere else. In some of these houses to which I have been invited time after time, I don't even know what the living room looks like. To me it is still a cellar no matter how it is fixed up and no place to entertain company. Altogether I think this whole idea very inhospitable and suggests that guests are not sufficiently

I behaved to sit in the living room. This has been a pet peeve of mine for some time and I would very much like to know what you think about this.

Answer: The people who invite you to parties in their basement or "rumpus" room probably have a living room that is too small for the number of guests they like to have, and you should not feel slighted because they invite you only to their larger parties which are given in the basement.

Woman's Signature

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it ever proper for a married woman to sign her maiden name as —nee Smith—after her married name—Mrs. John Jones, when writing to an acquaintance of her parents who would not know her otherwise?

Answer: If you sign your name Mary Smith Jones that will tell exactly who you were and who you now are and is much better taste than "nee Smith." Mrs. John Jones is not a correct signature.

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her leaflet E-21, entitled, "Modern Notes," send 10 cents in coin to Dept. E. P., care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail.

No 'Glad Rags' Worn By Russian Women

New York — If you were a working girl in Russia, you would pay more for a dress than for a month's rent.

The clothes you wear wouldn't pass muster at an American rummage sale, and your cosmetics would be primitive, but expensive.

These are bits of incidental information gleaned from the Soviet exhibition of science, technology and culture at New York's coliseum.

It seems everybody is curious about Russia, and so the 6-week exhibition is likely to be a box-office success, with New Yorkers elbowing out-of-towners for a look at the sputniks, the house-niks and the clothes-niks proudly displayed by the red-niks.

A live fashion show is a feature of the exhibition and, judging from samples displayed in advance, neither Paris nor New York need worry for some time about competition from either Russian fashions or Russian models.

There is an attempt at high fashion in some instances, such as a moss-green ribbed wool jersey two-piece dress and matching stole, with gold threads interwoven in the blouse. Other fashions tend to the strictly utilitarian, with heavy, stiff fabrics and bulky construction.

Some of the officials eye American newsmen and women with suspicion. But others talk readily. The most friendly of the Russian women at the exhibition are professional gals, hard-working and serious, who are proud of their achievements and anxious to compare notes with American career women.

Blind Masseuse Completes Training; To Begin New Career

BY CAROL RICHARDSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A helpful gesture begun at the Wisconsin School for the Visually Handicapped at Janesville has developed into a promising career for blond, 21-year-old Marilyn Kelling.

"The girls always wanted back rubs and nobody else would do it," said the young woman. When they asked her what she would do when she was through school, she said, "factory work. I guess, but they all advised me to use what I had been doing, use it as a career," Marilyn explained.

Blind since birth, Marilyn, the end of July will complete her 10-month apprenticeship as a masseuse at the YMCA Women's Health club. Mrs. Herta Kummel, club manager, has been training Marilyn in the German massage technique.

Awaiting Marilyn at the completion of her job in Appleton are a guide dog and new job as health club manager at the Sheboygan YMCA.

"I saw the Sheboygan Y and it's a nice, new building," Marilyn said enthusiastically. The young woman will spend four weeks in Columbus, Ohio, where she will be trained with her dog before beginning her new job. "I don't know what kind it will be," she said, "but I just love dogs!" She explained that the dogs aren't usually friendly at first and that it takes a couple weeks to become acquainted.

While at Columbus, Marilyn will live in a dormitory at the training school, sponsored by Pilot Guide Dogs. "The school names the dogs," she added, "but I hope it's a name I like. I'd like to call it Perky or Peppy," she commented on the dog, bought by three American Legion posts in Random Lake, Marilyn's home town.

Marilyn visits her parents, three brothers and sisters who live on a farm near Random Lake nearly every weekend, admitting she gets plenty of practice on her family, who want tired muscles soothed. She also helps in the fields and like to ride on the tractor with her brother. Under Mrs. Kummel's guidance, Marilyn has studied from books printed in Braille, obtained through the state agency for the Rehabilitation for the Blind. Other textbooks have been recorded and Marilyn learns her material by playing the records.

A daughter of Mrs. Kummel, who is partially blind, has tape recorded textbooks for the two and they have supplemented their anatomy studies by visiting the science laboratories at Lawrence college. The tape recorder was provided by Omar Myron, also blind, who works with the state rehabilitation for the blind program.

Clay Models Mrs. Kummel modeled clay bones to help Marilyn become acquainted with the skeletal system. "If you don't know the functions and locations of bones, you can hurt them," Marilyn explained. Assisting the health club director, Marilyn gives massages, infra-red treatments, steam baths and works the vibrator machines for patients.

"There isn't any part of the job I don't like," Marilyn said with enthusiasm. "It's fun meeting people and this is a friendly town. I have heard Sheboygan isn't quite so friendly, but it all depends on the personality."

Doctors often send their patients to the Health center for treatment in massage and exercise. "It really makes you feel good when you're finished with a patient and they say 'I feel so good,'" Marilyn added. "Sometimes people even fall asleep, they're so relaxed," she smiled.

Other Health club activities include reducing plans and diet suggestions. "I even lost weight," added the young masseuse after trying the vibrator belt. Her other interest is swimming in the YMCA pool, where she swims along the side.

Asked what phase of her work she prefers, Marilyn said without hesitation "massaging people's backs, because that's how I became interested in this work. Now I'm really glad they talked me into doing this when I was at school," she added happily.

1784 Rules Reviewed By Church

Lake Junaluska, N.C.—Women's clothing was a matter of concern to Methodist church leaders 175 years ago.

Among the rules adopted at the organizational meeting of the Methodist church in America in 1784 was this one:

"Give no tickets to any till they have left off superfluous ornaments. Allow no exempt case, not even a married woman. Give no tickets to any that wear enormous bonnets, ruffles or rings."

This was mentioned in a report Monday by the Rev. Dr. J. Manning Potts of Nashville, Tenn., at the annual meeting of the Southeastern Jurisdiction Methodist Historical society.

Another item that brought smiles was one of 12 rules adopted in 1784 for young preachers.

"Converse sparingly and cautiously with women, particularly young women," the preachers were told.

'Displaced Hubby Complains About Wife's Childish Actions

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: Over a year got accustomed to the idea making her miserable. Will you say something to give her peace of mind? Can anything be done about the baby's birthmark? — CONCERNED DAD

I have some advice? DIS-PLACED.

Dear Displaced: Your wife is fostering this neurotic dependency in the child because she's pretty much of a child herself. In plain English the arrangement is mightily comfortable for both "kids" because your wife doesn't want to be a wife. She needs professional help. If she refuses to see a doctor and put the child back in her own room where she belongs, you have every right to see a lawyer. The arrangement you describe is no marriage. You are merely living in the house and paying the bills.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our little boy was born last month with a purple birthmark on his neck. This mark covers about four inches and I'm afraid it will be with him forever.

My wife's grandmother who is from the old country told my wife this birthmark is a punishment because she stole plums from a neighbor's tree when she was a little girl.

My wife is not a stupid person but Ann, she actually be-

Open Kettle Canning Not Advised by Expert

Open kettle canning is not recommended because when you transfer food from the kettle to the jar bacteria may get in the food and cause it to spoil. In the boiling water bath method food is processed after the jar is filled, according to Charlotte Dunn, foods specialist at the University of Wisconsin.

For vegetables other than tomatoes, you will need to use a pressure canner to get a high enough temperature to destroy spoilage organisms.

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

With July just around the corner, we can cer- tainly expect some hot afternoons. If the heat makes your baby fret a bit upon waking from an after- noon nap, these tricks often help baby snap out of post-nap blues: (1) A quick swish over face and neck with a cool, moist wash cloth. Check Sirup if Canned Fruit Floats in Jar

Canned fruit sometimes floats in the jar because it has been too loosely packed or the sugar sirup is too heavy, according to Charlotte Dunn, foods specialist at the Uni- versity of Wisconsin.

To hot pack berries you need about 1 cup sugar to the quart. Most fruits take either a thin sirup (2 cups sugar to 4 of water) or a medium sir- up (3 cups sugar to 4 of wa- ter).

Packers Close Book on 1959 Draft Roster

Sign Gary Raid, Larry Hall and Florida's Hergert

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service
Green Bay — The Packers closed the book on the 1959 draft list today with the signing of the seventh, eleventh and twenty-fourth choices. Coach GM Vince Lombardi announced that signed playing documents have been received from tackle Gary Raid of Willamette, the seventh pick; guard Larry Hall of Missouri Valley, eleventh; and linebacker Joe Hergert of Florida, the twenty-fourth. All of the '59 draftees, except one Canadian escapee and the junior eligibles, are now in the fold and will report for the opening of practice next July 5. The lone losse is Randy Duncan, the Iowa quarterback who was drafted No. 1.

Draft-Choice Payment
Raid actually represents the draft - choice payment from the New York Giants for guard Al Barry, the veteran who was traded shortly before the '58 season started. Lombardi announced that Raid will seek employment as an offensive tackle. He's good size for the work — 255 pounds and 6-2. He's a rough blocker.

Raid made the All-Northwest conference team and the Associated Press Little All-America. He played in the All-American bowl game in Tucson last January.

The Willamette ace and his line coach, Bill Austin, both starred at Woodburn High school in Woodburn, Ore. Hall was placed on the Willamette Rating System All-Star first team, the Missouri Collegiate Athletic union star team and the NAIA Little All-American.

Hall, who stands 6 feet tall and weighs 235 pounds, is an aggressive downfield blocker and will be used as an offensive guard. Hergert likes to hit hard and comes highly recommended as a pro-type line-backer. He stands 6-2 and packs 220 pounds. He is currently finishing up a six months' tour of duty with the army.

Fox Cities to Help Determine All-Star Game Host This Week

Despite their current last-place status, the Fox Cities Foxes will be in the Three-I league spotlight for the remainder of the week. Beginning tonight, the Foxes play the top two clubs eight games in a 6-day span. The Foxes' success — or failure — against Des Moines and Green Bay will help determine which of the two gets the choice host role for the July 15 All-Star game.

The game will be played in the city of the team which is leading the circuit Sunday night. The Foxes, who lost a second straight game via wet grounds Monday night, will play Des Moines at Goodland field tonight in the opener of a 4-game series. Tonight's attraction is the Elks club charity game.

The game will start at 8 p.m. Special ceremonies begin at 7:30. All proceeds will be used for the benefit of Wisconsin hospitalized veterans. Fans who didn't buy tickets in advance can purchase them at the gate tonight. The Foxes play the Demons in a doubleheader Wednesday night and in a single game Thursday night. Green Bay comes in for single games Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights. The Foxes also will

Move Within Half-Game of 3-1 Loop Lead

By The Associated Press
Des Moines, still deep in its week-long batting slump, made the most of its opportunities Monday and moved back to within a half-game of the lead in the Three-I league. The Demons, making only two hits, striking out 11 times and committing five errors, way, getting Don Demeter on rode a 3-run triple by Tom Morgan in the fifth inning to a 4-2 victory over Green Bay. In the other game played, Burlington climbed to sixth place by beating Topeka in 10 innings, 8-6. The other two scheduled games were postponed because of rain.

Burlington Wheeler's fine pitching went to waste in Des Moines' victory at Green Bay. His only lapse was Morgan's blow, which came on the heels of three walks. The Bluejays had nine hits. Ken Lindley hit a 2-out, 2-strike homer as Burlington tallied three times in the ninth to tie Topeka. Then Gary Tomlin pitched two shutout innings and drove home the winning run in the tenth.

Regain 2nd On Pair of Home Runs

By The Associated Press
The National league's longest winning streak of the season covered seven games in seven days, lasted 12 innings and was all over on one pitch. Jim Davenport and Willie Mays jolted reliever Stan Williams' first two pitches for thirteenth-inning home runs Monday night, but Davenport's was all San Francisco needed in a 6-4 decision that ended Los Angeles' streak and reclaimed second place from the Dodgers. It was Davenport's second homer of the night.

Both Trail by 1 1/2
That was the only game scheduled in the NL and moved the Giants two percentage points ahead of the Dodgers. Both are 1 1/2 games behind Milwaukee's league-leading Braves.

Davenport now has homered twice in one game three times in the majors — each time at the Los Angeles coliseum, where he hit five of his 12 rookie homers last season. Last night's pair, for a total of five this year, were his first against the Dodgers in '59.

The Dodgers who three times came from behind scored twice in the first, chasing Jack Sanford in his first appearance since June 11 because of injury, for a 2-1 lead after Davenport's leadoff homer. Willie Kirkland's thirteenth home run scored two for a 3-2 Giant lead in the third against starter Roger Craig, but Gil Hodges' fourteenth home run tied it in the Dodgers' third.

Both scored in the ninth after Craig retired 16 in a row, the Giants counted on a single by Orlando Cepeda and Jackie Brandt's triple. But the Dodgers came back on a single by Gilliam and a double by Charlie Neal that chased reliever Stu Miller, and a sacrifice fly by pinch-hitter Carl Furillo off winning reliever Mike McCormick. The young left-hander, now 7-7, blanked the Dodgers two hits, striking out 11 times and committing five errors.

Williams (3-3) came on after southpaw Sandy Koufax had struck out five in three perfect innings of relief, then was lifted for pinch-hitter Don Drysdale—who grounded into a double play in the twelfth.

Now if our skipper's bank-roll permits, he can go to still larger craft in which the after end of the cabin is raised to offer more comforts. In a sailing boat, this takes the form of a "doghouse," a handy spot for dining, and perhaps a bunk for an off-watch crewman.

In power, the elevation becomes the familiar deckhouse with sliding windows, screens and excellent ventilation for southern use. The deckhouse can hold a dinette convertible to a double bunk and still have room for a helmsman's seat, lounging chairs, a galley or other items when the boat reaches a length of around 40 feet.

Regardless of size, simplicity is the keynote. Avoid all unnecessary items and you'll have more room for yourself. Stick to the standard, time-proven layouts.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q: Is a hanging locker the best place for keeping shore clothes looking nice?

A: For short passages it's handy. But for a long voyage there's too much friction on the fabric when clothes rub together with motion of the boat. Jackets can be worn, trousers only too soon. Trousers should be rolled, starting from the top, keeping them free of wrinkles and lashing them to Braves Catcher Stan Lopata blocked the way for a Yankee score and tagged Bill Skowron as he attempted to cross the plate in the second inning of a charity exhibition game between the Yanks and the Braves. The play came when Gil McDougald grounded to Eddie Mathews at third base who threw to Lopata. The Braves won, 8-3.

Youngsters Benefit From Exhibition

Adcock Wins Home Run Contest; Yank Reserves Kick Ball Around

BY DAVE O'HARA Milwaukee — The New York Yankees kicked the ball around in weird fashion, and the Milwaukee Braves' reserves looked like super stars. But it wasn't the World Series — only an exhibition.

Youngsters in the Wisconsin and New York area were the only beneficiaries in the Braves 8-3 victory over the Yankees Monday night before a crowd of 30,554 at County stadium.

The Braves added plenty of extra dollars and presented a check of $100,000 to the Milwaukee Braves' foundation established to provide college scholarships.

Sandlot Fund The Yankees earmarked their share of the receipts — close to $30,000 for the New York Sandlot Baseball fund.

Pre-game festivities included a home run hitting contest, much to New York's sorrow. Not only did the Braves' Joe Adcock edge teammate Hank Aaron, 5-4, in a hitoff, but the Yankees' Mickey Mantle aggravated an injury.

Mantle twisted his right ankle while managing to put only one of five fair balls over the fence. He limped back to the dugout, but he probably will not miss any American league action. He originally injured the ankle two weeks to go.

The World Series rivals of Tony Cloninger, $100,000 bonus pitcher, who had a rough time getting started at Eau Claire, looked like sand-lotters on occasions as they committed five errors. But the spotty play was done mostly by re-serves who haven't seen much action.

10 Vital Playing Dates Lie Ahead for AL's 5 Pennant Contenders

A's Score 8 Runs in 10th to Beat Tigers; Bunning Suffers Wrist Injury

By The Associated Press Tenth. The Tigers now have lost nine of their last 14 games, so far a scramble of winning streaks and slumps. Three of their last five, 16 of gets rolling tonight on what the 30 runs against them have could be 10 telling days for been unearned.

The five contenders — Cleveland, Chicago, Baltimore, Detroit and New York.

In those 10 playing days, the sandwiching the break for the All-Star game at Pittsburgh a week from today, two of the three western wonders will

The Tigers, four games behind and tied for fourth with New York after a 10-inning, 10-3 loss to Kansas City in the only AL game scheduled Monday have six games with the White Sox.

Stand-Off Likely That gives either of the three — the Indians, White Sox or Tigers — a chance to break away, but a stand-off is more likely. And a stand-off would give Baltimore and New York a chance to take charge.

The Orioles, third, 2½ games back, and Yankees play each other only three times in the 10-day period. Baltimore splits a dozen games between Washington and Boston, while the Yankees have 10 with the Senators and Red Sox.

A stand-off among the Indians, White Sox and Tigers would make Kansas City the tie-breaker, and the seventh place A's could snarl things but good.

Bonduel and Black Creek open the Dairyland Baseball League's second-round schedule with a holiday game at Bonduel Saturday.

Bonduel clinched the first-half title last Sunday with a 9-3 home victory over Landstad. Richter gained the win, while Radtke was the loser.

Nichols downed Black Creek, 8-0, Sunday to tie the losers for second place. Joe Buss pitched a 5-hitter for Nichols and also punched a 2-run homer in the sixth inning.

Herb Huris 2-Hitter
Nichols shortstop Kay Plamann led both teams in hitting with 3-for-5.

Nichols is host to Hofa Park Sunday in its second round opener.

Hofa Park was stopped, 3-0, on a 2-hitter by Navarino's Jerry Herb last Sunday. The game was called because of rain after the top of the seventh. Herb faced only 21 batters in seven innings.

Navarino scored once in the first on back-to-back doubles by Pucc and L. Erb. Its final two runs were scored in the fifth.

Navarino invades Landstad Sunday for its second-half opener.

Closed-Circuit TV A Coming Phenomenon

Already Being Used for More Than Added Seats at Big Fights

BY JINGO
Closed-circuit television, the transmission of pictures by electric cable rather than by air-waves as in conventional TV, is looking for new worlds to conquer.

Fight fans know the descriptive phrase Last week, they read on the sports pages that a record 550,000 seats would be available for closed-circuit TV-viewing of the Patterson Johansson title bout in 170 theaters and auditoriums in 135 U. S. and Canadian cities.

Post-Crescent readers are even more familiar with the phrase from stories about the New London High school's use of the closed system for monitoring study halls.

However much it would seem the public is aware of the phenomenon, Jingo doubts there is widespread knowledge of how fast the closed system is becoming part of the everyday scene.

For example—
Beginning July 15 shoppers in a Bronx supermarket will be bombarded by 7-second commercials advertising almost all store products, from 30 closed-circuit TV sets spotted around the store.

At a Massachusetts airport where a sport parachute center is a feature, onlookers stare at 24-inch TV screens to get the thrill of the backflips and somersaults by the chutists as they hurtle out of the planes overhead.

Doctors at the AMA convention in Atlantic City earlier this month settled back to watch, in color and on a 9 by 12-foot screen, an operation being performed in a local hospital.

Some 6,000 men are instructed at one time at the army signal school Fort Monmouth N. J., through 468 sets on one closed-circuit system.

International Business Machines introduced a series of new products to some 15,000 people in 150 cities earlier this year through a closed-circuit business get-together.

A New York department store uses the closed system to detect shoplifters. A hidden camera transmits pictures to a basement detection center. Alarms are hurried to floor detectives when culprits are spotted.

The same store also uses a closed system in its refund department to make sure returned merchandise was purchased from the store. It replaces runners who used to carry the article to the counter where it might have been sold.

A New York jeweler uses closed-circuit TV to help him identify customers in his anteroom. The receiving set in his office helps him determine which Mr. Jones wants to see him. This gives him a chance to associate the face before he appears.

Home use of the system is still practically unheard-of because of the high cost ($1-495 retail for camera and installation to a channel on your set that is unused locally).

But, it'll come. Jingo foresees the day when mama will watch junior in the backyard through TV screens here and there in the house.

Lawrence Says:

Gallup Poll Explodes Power Myth

President Strong Even Though He Will Not Run Again

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — The myth that a president of the United States loses power in his second term because he cannot be reelected for a third term has been exploded by the results of the Gallup poll just published. They show since the close of the 1958 election in November 1958, when the country voted overwhelmingly Democratic, President Eisenhower's popularity has gone up from 52 per cent to 62 per cent.

Most of the gain has been achieved inside the Democratic party where 48 per cent of the Democrats throughout the country, in contrast with 35 per cent in November 1958, now say they approve of the way Mr. Eisenhower is handling the presidency. The Republican approval nationally has gone up from 80 per cent to 87 per cent since last year.

What has happened to give the president a rise of 10 points in the over-all vote since the elections of only eight months ago? Is it any longer true a president cannot make headway unless he bribes congress with patronage — appointments to office of the constituents of congressmen — or by bestowing other favors on the legislators whose votes he needs to support his program?

Ethics Change The ethics of the presidency have changed considerably since the time when reliance was placed on such tactics. Instead, it is the power of public opinion which today strengthens the hand of a president. This accounts for the increase in popularity of Mr. Eisenhower with the country as a whole.

Members of congress cannot, from a political point of view, effectively oppose the president on measures on which he has the people's support. There is little doubt that Mr. Eisenhower has won nationwide approval by his peaceful yet firm course in world politics.

The fact is a president need not be weak in his second term just because he cannot be a candidate for a third term. Theodore Roosevelt, recently successful in his drive for Republican reelection, just as to maintain a sound dollar. In much political power in 1904 a sense he has appealed to the as if he had himself been a conservative or anti-radical candidate when he practical elements in the Democratic Party. He retained the support of the Republicans, who are essentially conservative and anti-radical anyhow. Mr. Eisenhower isn't a candidate for a third term—and even if he were under the constitution, he wouldn't run—but he is a candidate for the esteem of his countrymen and the place in history that is accorded the efforts of a competent and dedicated public servant.

(Copyright, 1959)

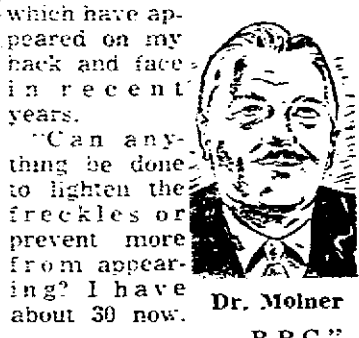

A Real Test For the test of a president's strength today, he is not seeking anything for himself but keeps uppermost in his mind the welfare of the people as a whole. He has not stooped to petty politics. The country looks upon him as a sincere, earnest man. The more his opponents have made vitriolic attacks of a palpably partisan nature of his policies, the more the country has increased its support of the president.

President Eisenhower has endeavored to speak for all the people. He has been emulating the great men in history who have placed the welfare of a nation above their own ambition. He has not stooped to petty politics. The country looks upon him as a sincere, earnest man. The more his opponents have made vitriolic attacks of a palpably partisan nature of his policies, the more the country has increased its support of the president.

To Your Good Health

Moles, Freckles Common; Usually Don't Cause Trouble

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D. and various home remedies "Dear Dr. Molner: I am intended to bleach freckles, quite concerned about a large number of freckles and moles which have appeared on my back and face in recent years.

Dr. Molner B.P.C.

"Can anything be done to lighten the freckles or prevent more from appearing? I have about 30 now.

Moles and freckles aren't the same—except they have in common the fact that they are colored spots on the skin. The spots mean that pigment (coloring matter) has accumulated in those areas. So now let's consider them individually.

Moles generally are the result of some minor oddity in skin make-up. They sometimes have a tendency to increase in number as we grow older. Again, we may never have any besides whatever ones we were born with—and it is a rare person who does not have at least one somewhere on the body.

Many Kinds There are all sorts of moles—brown, blue which means that the dark coloring matter is buried fairly deep in the skin, red, purple, yellow and even white. Some are hairy, some are not.

Most moles don't cause any trouble. If they are disfiguring, they can be removed surgically—and since they are on the surface, the surgery is simple. From the medical standpoint, they are best removed if they are on the collar line, belt line, palm of the hand, sole of the foot, or on a part of the face where you do shave. That is, remove them if they are so located as to be subject to constant chafing or irritation.

In addition, any mole that changes size rapidly, changes color, itches or becomes scaly, should be removed at once as a precaution against its becoming malignant.

Pigment Spots Freckles, unlike moles, are the result of ultra-violet light, whether from the sun or sun-lamps. It causes the pigment to clump at spots. Freckles often fade in winter and come back in summer. When I say "fade" I don't mean they are likely to disappear entirely. There are ointments, lotions and creams which can be used to lighten the freckles, but they are not as effective as the ones that are effective.

If you tend to freckle, some of the sunburn preparations, which filter the sunlight may retard or minimize their formation, but don't think that means you can pour on some lotion and then expect to have a different kind of skin! I said retard. Not prevent. There are cases in which chemicals can be used by a physician to remove the outer portion of skin—and the freckles. This is, obviously, a delicate process, and should not be attempted by anyone but an expert. And it doesn't change your skin. The new surface will freckle, too. So for all practical purposes, I say the only thing to do about freckles is learn to like them, or to cover them up with cosmetics. Personally, I don't think freckles are objectionable at all.

Individual Matter "Dear Dr. Molner: Can long use of iron injure the bowel? I have colitis.—Mrs. E.B.

While iron is known to irritate the colon of some individuals, I am not familiar with it as being an actual cause of colitis.

Peeling Apples MRS. R.T.D.: No, there's no reason to peel apples before you eat them, unless you have something wrong with your digestive tract. For a vast majority of us, it's better to eat the skin, too. It gives the teeth something to chew.

Leg cramps and foot pains? Both can be stopped! To learn how, write to me in care of this newspaper, requesting my pamphlet, "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," and enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling.

Policy-Makers Exempt From Libel Laws

Washington — The supreme court Monday decided policy-making government officials who give statements to the press on matters committed by law to their control have absolute immunity from libel suits.

Justice Harlan delivered the main opinion. Chief Justice Warren wrote a dissenting opinion, in which Justice Douglas joined. Justice Stewart also wrote a dissenting opinion. Justice Brennan nited a dissent. The court's vote thus was 5-4.

The court ruled on a justice department appeal filed on behalf of William G. Barr. He was acting director of the office of rent stabilization in 1953.

Barr was sued for asserted libel by two former employees holding that the ban on "Lady Chatterley's Lover" was improper.

for statements he made in a press release Feb. 5, 1953.

The release said the workers would be fired because they were responsible for a plan which allowed 53 of the agency's workers to take their accumulated annual leave in cash.

The leave had been denounced by four senators in floor speeches.

The libel suit was filed by Mrs. Linda A. Matteo and John J. Madigan in U. S. district court here. A jury in that court awarded Mrs. Matteo $6,500 and Madigan $2,000.

New York Censorship Law Unconstitutional

Washington — The supreme court Monday struck down the New York state movie censorship law as unconstitutional.

The ruling set aside a ban on the film "Lady Chatterley's Lover."

All nine justices agreed in the ruling.

Nelson Appoints Two State Posts

Madison — The executive office announced Monday that Gov. Gaylord Nelson had made appointments to two state agencies.

Milton E. Schneider, 48, Wisconsin Rapids, was named to a 4-year term on the University of Wisconsin board of visitors. He replaces Mrs. George Chatterton, Madison, whose term expired.

Clinton Rose, 41, Milwaukee, member of the Milwaukee chapter of the National association for the Advancement of Colored People, was appointed to the Governor's Commission on Human Rights.

However, four justices said the court moved too swiftly in striking down the New York law. They were Justices Harlan, Whittaker, Clark and Chief Justice Warren. They said the law was a "preliminary measure" and that the state should be given a chance to defend its law.

Vote to Make Medical Exams Necessary for School Personnel

Madison — The senate Monday concurred in an assembly-passed bill that would make medical examinations a condition of employment for county school personnel.

Teachers already are subject to such examinations.

The present bill would include county school superintendents, social workers and others whose jobs bring them into contact with school-age children. The vote on the measure was 25-0.

The absence of eight members thwarted work on controversial measures on the calendar. Two hours after the opening of a rare Monday morning session it was apparent that only non-debatable proposals would receive definite action.

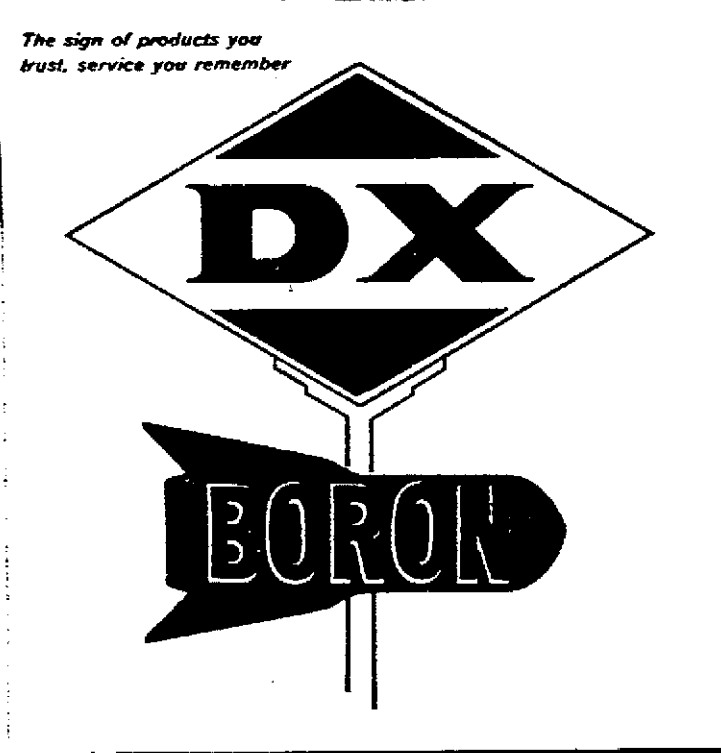

Inflation Blamed On High Interest

Dallas, Tex. — Current inflation and the recent increase in the national debt ceiling were blamed Sunday by Rep. Wright Patman D., Tex., in a high interest policy instituted in 1953.

Patman, member of the house banking and currency committee, was a guest on the weekly radio and TV program of Sen. Ralph Yarborough D., Tex.

"If the administration in 1953 had not increased interest rates they would not have asked congress to increase the national debt limit six times, as they have," Patman said.

"And congress has increased it six times. We've been paying interest on interest. That's where a large part of the money goes—interest on interest. And that has been the causing of raising the debt limit," Patman added.

State to Survey Conditions on South Commercial

Highway Engineers to Check Need for Street Rebuilding

Neenah — State highway engineers will begin a survey of the conditions of S. Commercial street from Winneconne avenue south to the city limits Wednesday, Wayne G. Bryan, public works director said today.

The crews are now working on checking the condition of Main street in Winneconne and will come here from that project.

Purpose of the survey is to determine the need for any reconstruction and when such work should be undertaken. After the information is compiled it is submitted to the state highway commission which decides if the work should be done with state and federal aid and when such work should be done if it is decided that such aid should be granted.

The city for several years has requested this work which has been among projects submitted by the Green Bay district office as possible projects to be included in future highway programs. The council several weeks ago voted to

The school's total estimated cost, including architect fees and landscaping, is $462,542, paid for by a 20-year bond issue which also is financing conversion of Butte des Morts school into a junior high. ## Man Injured As Auto Falls From Jack

No Broken Bones, X-Rays Reveal at Neenah Hospital

Neenah — While working beneath his car Monday night, a former Neenah man received chest injuries when a jack slipped, pinning him to the garage floor.

H. Charles Diestler, 28, CreveCoeur, Ill., is in good condition at Theda Clark Memorial hospital, where X-rays revealed no broken bones. The Neenah ambulance was called at 10:57 p.m.

Diestler and his wife have been visiting his mother, Mrs. William Pagel, at 239 First street.

Mrs. Diestler said her husband had lifted the car with a frame type jack, placed on a block of wood. No safety stands were used.

When the car slipped off the jack, Diestler's chest received the full impact of the falling car chassis, cushioned only by the act on of its road springs.

While the neighbors were jacking the car to pull Diestler out, it slipped a second time, the chassis again hitting his chest.

Neenah Town To Keep 1 a.m. Closing Hour

Neenah — The Neenah town board Monday night voted not to make any changes in the closing time of taverns.

Its ordinance requires any place with a retail liquor license to be closed from 1 a.m. to 8 a.m.

A similar action was taken last week by the town of Menasha board which voted not to make any change to permit taverns to stay open until 2 a.m. as now permitted under state law if the local district approves.

Gordon M. Hanson, town of Winchester chairman, said a check is being made of the town's records to see if the 1 a.m. limit was set by town ordinance. If no time was set in the past, the town board may take action to conform to the closing times set by other townships in the area, he indicated.

Teacher Advises Use of Creative Dancing for Violent Feelings Outlet

If a child can work off his killing urge in a dance, he won't have to join a gang and use a switchblade knife.

This is the somewhat simplified theory of Blanche Evan, who has been teaching creative dancing in New York City for the last 20 years.

Most of Miss Evan's pupils are girls—but there is no difference in their feelings of violence, and their need to express them.

Repressions "I find that the nice, well-brought-up girls from good families who come to my classes have tremendous repressions," she observes, and a number of her adult students are sent to her by the police girls.

At first they resist free expression, but later, for the young, they hear they love it.

Miss Evans has found mental power, of voyages through the years that both Miss Evan.

find great joy and satisfaction in violent dances, which depict everything from fist fights to murder. The modes of expression vary somewhat with the age. For instance, the 3-year-old likes to pretend to be an animal—a big woolly bear or a cuddly little kitten. From ages 6 to 9, children are preoccupied with speed—any kind of dance, just so it's fast. From 10 to 12 they like to depict monsters, and in their teens they are likely to express fears and uncertainty which can be dispelled by violent action.

Psychology The dance as taught by Miss Evan has a great deal of psychology mixed up in it, love you also must be able to hate."

Miss Evan recalls an instance when a group of girls in the pre-teen age bracket were engaged in a dance in which they improvised motions of beating and killing. When the music stopped one

After they have worked off their feelings of violence they are ready for feelings of beauty and affection," explains Miss Evan. "To be able to love you also must be able to hate."

gentle little girl was disappointed, saying:

"But I still have three more people to kill!"

These are normal, healthy expressions, says Miss Evan. And if children can let off steam in the imageries and actions of the dance, they're likely to be better adjusted to the strains of everyday life.

Housewife Directs Excess Energy Into Creative Pastime

Neenah — After her two place in the clay and attach sons had grown up, a Neenah the piece to her skirt. The woman sought a creative outlet for her energies and found degrees with about 24 hours the answer in a ceramics hobby-allowed for baking and a by Today her home over-week for drying. Then I use flows with samples of her china paint or a glaze (which gives a glass-like finish) to color her, and after each painting, bake at 450 degrees.

Mrs. Henry S. Johnson, Meadow lane, who has "always liked art," gives lessons in ceramics and china painting. Figurines of Colonial ladies and gentlemen, choir boys, angels, animals, and nymphs decorate her home. Bases, lamp bases, wedding candy dishes, fancy plates, and saucer sets are attractively arranged around her living room on window sills, the fireplace mantle, and what-not shelves.

"When I started out I wanted a hobby," the redheaded mother explained. "Some-thing I could stay at home and feel contented doing. For a while I tried crocheting and knitting, but didn't like either. First I started painting plaster figurines, but I still wasn't satisfied. So I went to a vocational school in Milwaukee. (We lived there eight years ago.) I took some pottery making courses, private ceramic lessons, then private china painting lessons.

"Without specialized training I had to copy at first, but I made my things just a little different. Now I use my own ideas.

Last January the brown-eyed hobbyist broke her leg and she found her ceramics kept her busy during the long weeks she was confined to her home.

"If I sold my work in a store, it would not be a hobby by any more, but a big business," she said telling why she prefers not to merchandise her items. "I would have to rush. This way I can make nicer things and spend as much time as I want to at it."

Process
Step by step she thoroughly explained the process she goes through in making a colonial lady figurine.

"First I pour a slip, which is thin — about the consistency of cream, into a plaster mold. The bust, arms and skirt are made in three separate molds. When the clay has thickened, I put the three pieces together on a non-support charge.

"If I wish to trim her skirt with lace, I dip real cotton court Monday morning and present.

A two-foot high kiln made of insulated brick and heated by electricity is used to bake her pottery and figurines. Peepholes along one side of the cylinder-shaped object allow her to watch the progress of the baking.

She uses liquid gold which is dark brown when in a bottle to decorate her work. The 22 carat gold is "put on with a brush and baked alone so nothing will contaminate it."

Long chains of flowers trim her wedding bells, lamp bases, and vases. Each petal of flower must be made individually by hand.

"You'd be surprised at the gadgets you can pick up in the kitchen and use in one way or another," she said pointing to the lazy susan that contains her instruments.

"My friends are amazed whenever I take them down to my workshop. People just don't realize that these things are hand made," she remarked with a smile.

du. He had been sidelined with an injury for several games.

Neenah Man Purchases Old Pine River Store

Transfer to John Zick Ends 105-Year Control Of 4 Generations of A. M. Kimball Family

BY JAY JOSLYN
Post-Crescent Staff Editor

Pine River — For the first time in 105 years the A. M. Kimball and Sons store has moved out of the Kimball family. John A. Zick, Neenah, son of Neenah Fire Chief John Zick, Sr., purchased it this month.

With the imposing property in this Waushara county hamlet on the trout-filled Pine river at the juncture of County Trunks E. H. and W. Zick bought a lot of history.

The store was founded by A. M. Kimball in 1834 in a building at Centerville, a mile south of the village. In 1855, where farm families met for a day of activity, often ending in a dance in the second floor furniture showroom.

Kimball Family
In 1876 Charles Kimball joined his father in the store. In 1913 A. M. died and Charles' sons William and Howard joined the company. In 1932 Charles died and in 1940 William died. Mrs. William Kimball-Smith and Howard carried on the business with the assistance of William's son Alanson.

Alanson died in 1955 and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kimball continued control. Kimball died April 16 this year, and Zick bought the property June 7.

Today Pine River is a sleepy hamlet dominated by the stream from which it takes its name. It is a favorite retreat for fishermen. The controversy between fishermen and irrigation seekers flashed it into the news briefly last year and anti-irrigation sentiments still run high.

It is no wonder. If anything happened to the tumbling waters of the stream, as the village's volunteer fire department feared would be the result of more irrigation, there would be little left of the good neighbor during recent floods here.

The department allowed flood victims to use fire department equipment to battle the water. Few of the borrowers returned the equipment.

and a group of blacksmith shops among other busy industries. The Kimball store and the rival Frisby establishment across the street were booming, demanding the services of 10 or more clerks.

The stores are built along dimensions that attest to a busy past. However, some where along the line — and long-time residents still are not able to pin down the reason — the village withered to its present size.

The Kimball store, a general merchandising establishment, was more than a bazaar. It was a community center where farm families met for a day of activity, often ending in a dance in the second floor furniture showroom.

Self-Sufficient
The store today offers more than most stores, but in the past it was self-sufficient in almost all categories. Ancient patent medicine bottles on the shelves attest

Zoning Hearing Set on Two Sites in Town of Menasha

Menasha — Two town of Menasha parcels will be among those up for a zoning reclassification hearing at the courthouse lounge room at 8 p.m. Thursday night being conducted by the board of adjustments of the county board.

One of the sites is a 9-acre parcel west of Highway 41 on a town road which is owned by William Korth. He is asking a change from agricultural to residential.

The other is a .4-acre site along the Milwaukee road tracks in the eastern part of the town for which Otto Lieber Jr. is asking a rezoning from agricultural to industrial. It is near other Lieber property.

Borrowers Forget To Return Equipment

Saukville, Wis. — Saukville's volunteer fire department is wondering whether it result of more irrigation was such a good idea to play the good neighbor during recent floods here.

The department allowed flood victims to use fire department equipment to battle the water.

Few of the borrowers returned the equipment.

John Zick, Jr., of Neenah purchased the A. M. Kimball and Sons general store at Pine River and ended the 105-year, 4-generation control of the Kimball family in the establishment. Above is a recent view of the high-ceilinged main showroom with its clutter of every kind of merchandise. Below is a photograph taken in 1861 of the original building which was expanded through the years. One of the men on the ledge is wearing a Confederate army cap.

A LION'S SHARE OF VALUES!

1960 Auto Market May Aid Economy

BY SYLVIA PORTER
Standing around the gas pump when I pulled up in it? For an instant I bristled, then I saw their smiles, and the Sunday threw the question back at me. I was a couple them—and got some fascinating results. The mechanic: "If those little cars are what I hear, I'm buying, although general economic background me—I'll wait to see each model. For me, there's nothing like a bang-up auto sales year as now. Not in a long time has the American family wagon in January, I swore been so relatively free of debt, and in a position mine. But it's sure rough without a second car around here. I don't know. I'll see."

Second Neighbor: "Not me. I'm ready for a new, new big one like Sylvia's. None of those 'bugs' for me."
Bang-up Sales
Not since the fabulous auto year 1935—when 7,500,000 autos were sold in this country—has the auto industry sent our economy spiraling upward—has there been so much intense advance interest in new car models.
Not in four years has the general economic background—with its record paychecks, rising employment—been as right for a bang-up auto sales year as now.
Not in a long time has the American family wagon in January, I swore been so relatively free of debt, and in a position to take on new monthly payments to buy cars.

The 1960 auto year will get off with a roar when the big three start unveiling their compact cars 100 days from now.
And the 1960 auto year is likely to be one in which sales easily top 6,000,000 and in which sales well may top 7,000,000.
It is likely to mark a revolutionary broadening of the second-car market—not because of the prices of the smaller cars, but because the size of the new cars will appeal to the second-car buyer.
Predict Battle
It certainly will witness one of the fiercest competitive struggles in the industry's history as the European producers fight to hold their customers and the big three fight to get them back and all the domestic automakers battle each other for a share of the car market.
It will mark the beginning of a cycle of the individual car—meaning increasing numbers will buy small cars for their personal use as well as large cars for use by the entire family.
It could be a year of major switches in loyalties among car buyers since such buyers as my garage mechanic shop all the models before they decide which of the new compact autos they prefer.
It is hard to see how the 1960 car year can miss.
And this will mean not only a resurgence of Detroit but of all the industries in our land tied to the auto market.
It also will mean a great boost to the entire American economy. At a time when other stimulants will be losing force, the auto industry appears set to provide a stimulus.

Fake Kidnapers To Learn Their Punishment

Amarillo, Texas—Three airmen who caused authorities all sorts of trouble by faking a kidnaping may learn today what disciplinary action they face.

City police, sheriff's officers, highway patrolmen and 40 air police fanned out Saturday night in a search for a get-away car.

Maj. Theodore Newnam, provost marshal, identified the Amarillo air force base trio as Airmen Charles J. Moore, 20, Tucson, Ariz.; Clarence Marcuarela, 22, Matagorda, Texas, and Raymond L. Watson, Jr., 26, Nashville, Tenn.

Watson played the victim as the others forced his hands behind his back and took him from the base service club into an auto outside.

Another airman who witnessed the incident supplied a description of the trio and the auto. The car was found outside a barracks.

Arrested at their barracks, the men admitted the prank but gave no reason for it, Maj. Newnam said.

He said the ex act charges to be brought against them haven't been decided.

Four Appleton students in the Army Reserve Officers Training corps unit at the University of Wisconsin have started a 6-week training period at army ROTC summer camps.

Stationed at Fort Riley, Kans., are John F. McGowan, 914 E. Alton street, and Jon C. Stillman, 218 N. Drew street, infantry corps, and Roger N. Hamilton, 1120 E. Nawada street, medical corps.

James F. Larson, 540 Outagamie court, is with the transportation corps at Fort Lee, Va.

Committee Forwards 2 Claims Against City

The city council's finance committee Monday forwarded two claims against the city to the council's liability insurance carrier.

Involved are: Harold Olson, 8, of 512 1/2 N. Appleton street, who claims he cut his foot on glass at the bottom of the Erb park baby pool on June 14.

Mrs. Emma Sammons, 123 W. Parkway boulevard, who claims $800 for injuries she says she received in a fall on the sidewalk in the 700 block of Oneida street.

Legislature May End Obligatory ROTC at UW

Repeal Bill Sails Through Assembly Without Comment

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—Compulsory military instruction at the University of Wisconsin may be repealed by the state legislature.

For nearly two decades every male undergraduate student at the University of Wisconsin has been required by state law to have two years of training in the Reserve Officers Training corps on the campus.

Many Demands

During virtually every legislative session since the statute was adopted in 1941 there has been a demand for the repeal of the requirement. Each time the legislature declined.

This year a repeal bill sailed through the assembly almost without comment, and there are indications that the senate will concur in the measure soon.

Influential Sen. W. W. Clark of Wood county, head of the senate committee which has recommended approval of the assembly repealer, has offered only one minor objection.

He has proposed an amendment that would put the issue to the decision of the faculty and the regents of the university.

If they want to waive military training on a universal basis for undergraduates, they should be permitted to do so, the senate educational affairs leader has said.

A large ROTC training program will probably continue at the school. The university annually attracts about 500 young men into the advanced third and fourth year ROTC program, which is strictly voluntary.

Second Summer Band Concert Is Tonight

Mayor Calls 1-Way Proposal a Mistake

The public safety committee's proposal to extend the north-south 1-way streets to Wisconsin avenue is a mistake, Mayor Mitchell said today.

Committeemen last week agreed to ask the council to make Oneida street 1-way north and Appleton street 1-

Tucker Requests Study of Problem

Ald. Austin N. Tucker today circulated a letter to members of the public safety committee urging more study of the 1-way extension proposal.

He said he cannot support the recommendation because he believes there are "many problems attendant to this change that should be given more detailed study."

For example, he says, the police traffic division is reportedly advising the switching of the 1-way status of Appleton street to Superior street.

"Other issues such as parking bans and street width," he says, "are extremely vital and should be carefully studied."

way south' between Pacific street and Wisconsin avenue.

Both are 1-way between Lawrence and Pacific streets.

The mayor gave these reasons for his opposition:

City's Lifeline

1. The extension on Oneida street means further tying up of a major carrier into the city. Oneida street is the lifeline of the city, the mayor believes.

2. Appleton street is not adequate to handle the south-bound traffic north of Pacific street. It will have to be widened and any widening, because of the damage to property owners and business, should be paid for by the city, Mitchell said.

3. One-way streets would be on either side of Columbus school, a bad condition.

4. One-way streets ought not have any parking or businesses on them. They are intended to move traffic, nothing more, the mayor said.

Asks Study

Mitchell said he urges a thorough study of the entire 1-way street to see whether they are needed at all, or whether a better system cannot be evolved.

Mitchell has long been an opponent of the present 1-way system. Monday he again pointed to the conditions which make him an opponent. Washington street traffic, he explained, is dumped back on College avenue and so is Lawrence street traffic.

He admitted to Ald. Thomas K. Schneider, public safety chairman and to whom he directed his remarks, that extension of Washington street west of the water tower might solve the Washington street situation, there appears no relief for the Lawrence congestion.

The committee, in recommending the extensions, agreed the city needs the extensions to move traffic to Wisconsin avenue faster.

State Pastors to Discuss Fatalities

Madison — Fifty Wisconsin clergymen representing all faiths have been invited to meet here with Gov. Gaylord Nelson July 7 to consider ways to reduce highway deaths during the summer travel peak.

The executive office reported plans for the session Monday, saying it sought to emphasize the need for stressing safety during August. With expectation of one year in the last, 10, August has brought the most number of traffic deaths annually in Wisconsin.

He is held under $100 appearance bond. He was represented Monday by an attorney hearing before County Judge Raymond Rohr sitting in municipal court Monday.

Alderman Wants Commission on Port, Harbor

The city council Wednesday will be asked to establish a port and harbor commission, an action which Mayor Mitchell urged in his April "State of the City" address.

Ald. Austin N. Tucker today revealed he will make the request when he files a resolution with City Clerk Broehm.

The resolution will be read Wednesday night and referred to a committee for study, Broehm said today.

Mayor Mitchell, in calling for a port and harbor commission, told the council in April that the river problem has become large enough to warrant establishment of a separate commission.

The commission, he said, could help industries along the Fox river, and any industries which might want to locate along the river. It also could aid in expansion of recreational facilities, he said.

Tucker's resolution is brief and does not outline membership or duties he has in mind.

Alderman to Ask Police Study of Traffic, Parking

Ald. Austin N. Tucker Wednesday night will ask the city council to order a police traffic and parking study of the area bounded by Morrison, North, Durkee and Washington streets.

According to a resolution he filed today with City Clerk Broehm, Tucker will ask the police traffic bureau to make recommendations about:

- 1. How to eliminate complaints due to daytime parking.
- 2. How to increase traffic flow and pedestrian safety.
- 3. What is needed to control street parking.

East Will Get Heat Relief, South Torrid

Relief — fresh, cool air — appeared on the way to sweltering millions in the north-east today. But the season's hottest and most humid weather clung to southern areas with not much hope of immediate relief.

It was another night of restless sleep in the east and south after another day of 90-100 degree heat. Record high readings for the season and a date were reported in many eastern cities Monday.

While the northeast waited for the cooling breezes, most of the midwest enjoyed relief from the season's longest heat wave. However, rain dampened the welcome of the cooler weather in many areas.

Thunderstorms

The general and widespread thunderstorm activity marked the dividing line between cool air to the north and hot and humid air to the south. The wet belt stretched from the southern Great Lakes westward through Iowa and northern Missouri into Kansas and Nebraska, with light rain continuing northward into the northern Rockies.

No severe weather was reported in the thunderstorm sections but fairly heavy rain fell in many areas. Two inches or more of rain were reported in parts of Iowa and Illinois.

Temperatures were far lower than during the heat wave. Readings were in the 50s, with a few 40s and some 60s, from the northern Rockies eastward across the Dakotas and Nebraska through the upper Mississippi valley and into the Great Lakes region.

South of the cool-rainy zone, temperatures in the 70s were the rule extending eastward through the Atlantic coast states and southwestward through the southern Rockies and southward through Texas and to the Gulf coast.

Baltimore's 101 reading was one of the highest in the swelterbelt and the city's highest June 20 mark in 25 years. The 100-degree reading in Newark, N. J., was a record for the date. New York's 96 was the highest temperature in nearly two years and was within one degree of the record for June 29.

Judge Refuses Youth License For 7 Months

Robert Cornelius, 17, route 2, West De Pere, pleaded guilty in municipal court today to driving without a license and inattentive driving.

Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmieg ordered Cornelius not be issued a driver's license for one month and six months on the first count and six months on the second count.

Cornelius was arrested by county police on County Trunk Q in the town of Cicero Monday, after he struck the rear of a car driven by Bernice Ullman, 2100 S. Jackson street. After the accident Cornelius ran into a nearby woods, but reappeared and identified himself to county police at the accident scene about an hour and a half later.

Mrs. Clifford Ullman and Mrs. George Sturm, 909 Reddin street, Neenah, passengers in the Ullman car, complained of neck injuries. Cornelius received head cuts.

Fine Three Tippy Drivers

Appleton Man Changes Plea In Waupaca Case

Three drunken drivers were deprived of driving rights for one year after being judged guilty of drunken driving in Fox Cities area courts.

Glen J. Parker, 23, route 1, Appleton, was arrested by Waupaca county police May 31 after he was involved in a single-car accident on County Trunk Q about five miles south of Waupaca. His wife was hospitalized with bruises after the mishap.

He pleaded innocent during arraignment, but changed his plea to guilty Monday and was fined $150 by Justice George Whalen.

Milwaukee Man

Jessie J. Gouley, 44, Milwaukee, forfeited a $150 bond in municipal court today.

Gouley was arrested by city police on S. Memorial drive Saturday after he was seen driving erratically. He refused to take the drunkometer test.

Two passengers in the car, Anthony G. Connors and Gouley's wife, Estelle, were fined $25 each for drunkenness. Both are from Milwaukee.

Woodrow F. Ritchie, 44, route 1, Shiocton, was fined $100.

He was arrested Sunday by county police on Highway 54 in the town of Bovina.

He tested .22 on the drunkometer. A reading of .15 is considered intoxication.

Shares Lose Upward Spurt Price Tendency Mixed During Early Afternoon

New York — P — The stock market tried again to set a new high in the industrial average and once again faltered, leaving prices mixed early this afternoon.

A slightly higher balance remained from a fairly vigorous spurt early in the session but volume fell away and most major sections of the list showed an assortment of plus and minus signs. Steels, motors, rails, chemicals and aircrafts were irregular.

American Motors, the most active stock of the past five sessions, started the day with gusto, opening on successive blocks of 10,000 and 4,000 shares and posting a fractional gain. In the general softening that ensued, American Motors erased its gain and showed a fractional net loss before steadying again.

U. S. Steel and General Motors clung to fractional gains. Du Pont was off about a point as was Allied Chemical. Small losses were shown by Texaco, Goodyear, International Nickel and United Aircraft.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 30 cents to $228.10 with the industrials up 50 cents, the rails off 10 cents and the utilities up 30 cents.

Railroad Offers Strip Adjacent to Industrial Park

The Chicago and North Western Railway company today offered to sell the city approximately 2.73 acres in a strip adjacent to the city's industrial development park on S. Perkins street.

The railroad said it would sell the strip, 116.8 by 1,000 feet, for $1,500 an acre, or $4,095.

The city sought the strip at the request of the Fox Valley Sheltered Workshop, Inc., which is interested in buying a parcel in the park for a workshop building.

The strip is on the west side of Perkins street, north of the railroad tracks.

Mayor Mitchell said the offer will be read at Wednesday's council meeting and be referred to the industrial development committee for a decision at a meeting early next week.

for this priceless moment

Because you were an alert, careful driver today, this homecoming welcome is mine to enjoy.

Tomorrow is another day, and the little boys and girls will be out again, beset by the fascinating distractions which make them forgetful of safety rules they should remember.

Once again it will be up to you to guard their safety. You can forgive them for forgetting, but you would never forgive yourself if an accident should occur.

For yesterday, today, and tomorrow I say "Thanks" to you, for remembering to be careful, even when he forgot.

Remember A Child's Forgetfulness!

Walter J. Hendricks
Chief of Police
City Police Department

Boys and girls are forgetful of the safety rules we try so hard to teach them. It's everyone's job to remind them and to teach by example. This coming holiday be EXTRA CAREFUL! . . . you can help stop traffic tragedies by driving safely and courteously . . . observing speed limits and warning signs.

WHERE TRAFFIC LAWS ARE OBEYED,
DEATHS GO DOWN!
